
People in Political Science

Activities

Jan Knippers Black, David Mason, and Martin C. Needler, of University of New Mexico, taught in the University of Pittsburgh's Semester-at-Sea program during fall 1988.

Samuel Dubois Cook, Dillard University, will represent the United Negro College Fund, Inc., on the board of directors of the American Council on Education during 1989.

John D. Martz, professor of political science, the Pennsylvania State University, has been appointed editor of Studies in Comparative International Development, effective Volume 24, January 1989. Studies is published quarterly by Transaction, Rutgers University, New Brunswick.

Ali A. Mazrui, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, in his capacity as Andrew D. White Professor-at-Large, Cornell University, will spend two weeks in New York this spring giving public lectures and consulting with students and faculty. Earlier this year he was a consultant to the World Bank in Washington, D.C.

Arthur H. Miller, professor of political science and director of Iowa Social Science Institute at University of Iowa has recently returned from four weeks of lecturing in the People's Republic of China. The lectures were sponsored by the USIA and the Chinese Academy of the Social Sciences.

Dale H. Poel, associate professor of political science and public administration at Dalhousie University is on leave of absence to serve as a senior research associate with the Nova Scotia Royal Commission on Health Care. He will be on sabbatical leave following the completion of his work for the Commission.

J. David Singer, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, addressed the opening session of the Conference in Groningen marking the 25th anniversary of the Netherlands Institute of Polermology in December 1988.

James Thurber, American University, has been appointed by APSA President Lucian Pye as APSA's representative to the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Michael L. Vasu, Director, Social Science Research and Instructional Computing Lab, North Carolina State University (NCSU) has been named by the Independent Insurance Agents of America (IIAA) to co-direct the insurance industry's 1989 national opinion poll. In addition, Vasu, Larry Long of NCSU, and G. David Hughes, of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, recently conducted a series of focus groups with voters in Los Angeles and San Francisco on behalf of the insurance industry in the aftermath of California Proposition 103.

Administrative Appointments

John Agresto, president, Madison Center, a Washington, D.C. institute; former deputy chairman of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Richard A. Fredland, chair, department of political science, Indiana University, Indianapolis.

Donald D. Gregory, chair, department of political science and geography, Stephen F. Austin State University.

Kenneth R. Hoover, chair, department of political science, Western Washington University.

George E. Hudson, chair, department of political science, Wittenberg University.

Calvin Jillson, chair, department of political science, University of Colorado, Boulder.

Paul Light, associate dean of the Humphrey Institute; former special consultant on public management to the U.S. Senate Governmental Affairs Committee. Light was an APSA Congressional Fellow in 1982–83.

Jennie K. Lincoln, associate director, Latin American and Caribbean Program, Carter Center of Emory University.

James R. Millar, director of Institute for Sino-Soviet Studies, The George Washington University; currently Woodrow Wilson Fellow at the Kennan Institute for Advanced Studies.

Richard P. Nathan, director, Rockefeller Institute of Government and provost of the Rockefeller College of Public Affairs and Policy; formerly Princeton University.

Allan Rosenbaum, dean of School of Public Affairs and Services, Florida International University.

L. Earl Shaw, professor and chair, department of political science, Northern Arizona University; formerly at the University of Minnesota, Twin Cities.

Edward Sidlow, formerly of Northwestern University, has been named Assistant Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at Loyola University of Chicago.

Paul J. Weber, chair, department of political science, University of Louisville.

Bradford P. Wilson, chair, department of social sciences, Ashland College.

New Appointments

Ralph W. Bastedo, assistant professor, department of political science, Furman University.

Elizabeth Bussiere, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Massachusetts at Boston.

JOHN AGRESTO

Simone Chambers, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Colorado, Boulder; formerly at Columbia University.

Dennis M. Daley, associate professor of political science and public administration and director, master of public affairs program, North Carolina State University; formerly of University of Mississippi.

John Ellwood, professor of public affairs and planning, Humphrey Institute, effective September 1988; formerly Dartmouth College. Ellwood was an APSA Congressional Fellow in 1974–75.

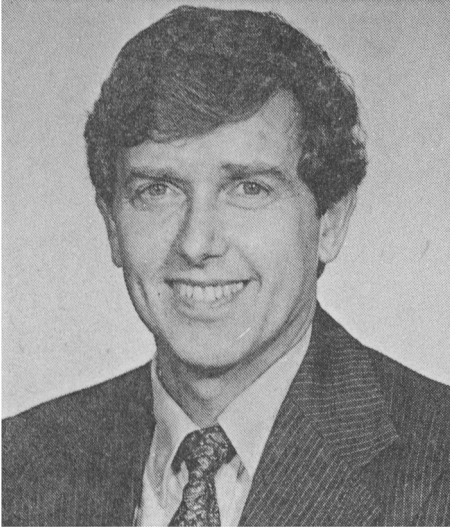

Thomas Ferguson, professor, department of political science, University of Massachusetts at Boston; formerly University of Texas, Austin.

Rodney Hero, associate professor, department of political science, University of Colorado, Boulder; formerly at Arizona State University.

Sheryl L. Lutjens, assistant professor of political science, Northern Arizona University.

Shane Phelan, assistant professor, department of political science, University of

People in Political Science

LOUIS FISHER

New Mexico, effective fall 1988; formerly Haverford College.

Igbal Singh, assistant professor of political science and public administration, North Carolina State University; formerly visiting assistant professor, Duke University.

Christine M. Sylvester, associate professor of political science, Northern Arizona University, formerly at Gettysburg College.

Richard W. Waterman, assistant professor, department of political science, University of New Mexico, effective fall 1989; formerly West Virginia University.

Margaret Jane Wyszomirski has been appointed to the Senior Faculty of the Federal Executive Institute-D.C. (formerly the Government Executive Institute) where she will develop seminars for career federal executives on the presidency and on public policy topics.

Promotions

Erika S. Fairchild, professor, North Carolina State University.

Louis Fisher, Senior Specialist in Separation of Powers, Congressional Research Service of the Library of Congress.

Nancy Gilson, assistant professor of political science, Simmons College.

Joseph A. Melusky, associate professor of political science, Saint Francis College, PA.

Barbara Nelson, professor, Humphrey Institute, University of Minnesota.

Walter J. Oleszek, Senior Specialist in American National Government (Legislative Process) at the Congressional Research Service of the Library of Congress.

Retirement

Keith S. Petersen, associate professor emeritus, North Carolina State University, as of July 1988.

Visiting and Temporary Appointments

Chong-Min Hyun, visiting professor, department of political science, Oklahoma State University.

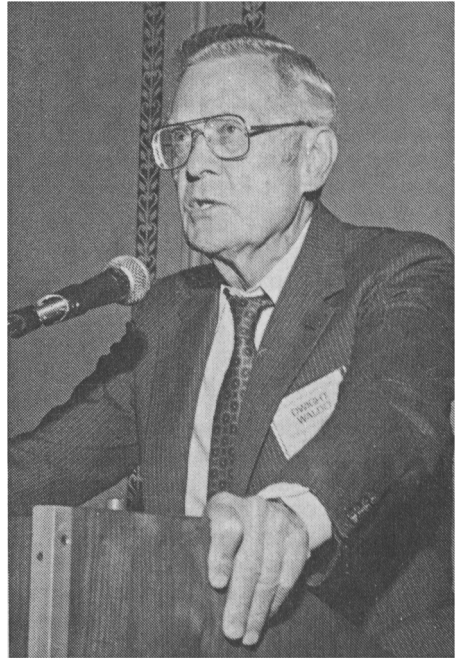

BARBARA NELSON

State University, on leave from Kyunghee University, Seoul.

Syed S. Islam, University of Dhaka, was a visiting Fulbright scholar during the fall 1988 semester, department of political science, University of Iowa.

Dwight Waldo, visiting distinguished professor, department of public administration, Florida International University.

Huning Wang, department of international politics at Fudan University, was a visiting scholar for the fall 1988 semester at department of political science, University of Iowa.

DWIGHT WALDO

Award Recipients

International Research & Exchange Board (IREX)

The following political scientists received grants from IREX in the spring 1988 selection.

Grants for Collaborative Activities and New Exchanges

Jeffrey C. Alexander, department of politics and culture, UCLA; to attend and be one of the organizers of a conference of the international Sociological Association in Krakow on the topic of "Social Progress and Sociological Theory."

Henry Bienen, Center for International Studies, Princeton University; to invite Yugoslav scholar Anton Bebler from E. Kardelj University in Ljubljana to lecture on civil-military relations in the socialist and communist states of Europe and to give him the opportunity to participate in panels at the 1988 Convention of the American Political Science Association in Washington, D.C.

Travel Grants for Senior Scholars

David P. Forsythe, department of political science, University of Nebraska-Lincoln; to lecture on human rights and humanitarian affairs in Prague as guest of the Czechoslovak Academy of Sciences, as well as to explore the effects of "glasnost" in Czechoslovakia.

Grants for Independent Short Term Travel

Steven Burg, department of political science, Brandeis University; to interview political elites in Yugoslav political centers of Belgrade, Zagreb, and Ljubljana to refine his understanding of the nature of current trends in Yugoslav politics. A special emphasis is given to exploring evidence of the trend toward peaceful democratization.

Jeffrey W. Hahn, department of political science, Villanova University; to do research on developing a collaborative study of public opinion regarding local politics in Moscow and to gather data in connection