NEW FROM UNC PRESS

PUBLISHED BY THE AUTHOR Self-Publication in Nineteenth-Century African American Literature

Bryan Sinche

"Sinche has wrestled a tremendous amount of information into a form that allows readers to readily follow a series of intriguing interpretations of virtually unknown narratives authored by Black people in the nineteenth century. A significant contribution to an important topic."

—Elizabeth McHenry, New York University

288 pages $34.95 paper

AWAKENING THE ASHES An Intellectual History of the Haitian Revolution

Marlene L. Daut

"By exposing the intellectual contributions of nineteenth-century Haitian scholars and leaders to our modern understanding of freedom and equality, Daut shows the ongoing racism of current intellectual genealogies and offers a new way of thinking about the fields of colonial and postcolonial studies."

—Julia Gaffield, author of Haitian Connections in the Atlantic World

432 pages $32.95 paper

SOUND-BLIND American Literature and the Politics of Transcription

Alex Benson

"Benson's book is not only exhaustively researched and highly original, but it also offers surprising archival finds relating to its subjects. It is brimming with insights, and there is never a dull moment as the reader is carried along by the waves of observation and material."

—Julie Beth Napolin, The New School

RENDERED OBSOLETE Energy Culture and the Afterlife of US Whaling

Jamie L. Jones

"The history of the American whaling industry is the history of extractive capitalism, and Jamie Jones's book is a fascinating account of how Americans came uncritically to affirm the narratives of technological progress promoted by the architects of energy regimes. This book will provide a crucial argument for thinking our way out of such narratives."

—Hester Blum, Penn State University

EVERYWHERE THE UNDROWNED A Memoir of Survival and Imagination

Stephanie Clare Smith

"Offers an account of trauma and its aftermath more acute than any I have read. Reminiscent in places of Sylvia Plath at her sharpest and most bleakly funny, it deserves to become a classic."

—Emma Brockes, author of She Left Me the Gun: My Mother's Life Before Me

Great Circle Books

THE AFTER A Veteran's Notes on Coming Home

Michael Ramos

"An intricate narrative of service, its meaning, and the life that comes after. Deeply felt. Beautifully written."

—Elliot Ackerman, author of Places and Names: On War, Revolution, and Returning

156 pages $20.00 paper

A QUESTION OF VALUE Stories from the Life of an Auctioneer

Robert Brunk

"Bob Brunk's essays, like the auction business he chronicles, bring fresh life to old artifacts. In fact, his reminiscences made me see objects anew: as the guardians of secrets and stories. This is a book for the unconscious collector in each of us."

—Elizabeth Kostova, author of The Historian and The Shadow Land

AMERICAN LITERARY MISFITS The Alternative Democracies of Mid-Nineteenth-Century Print Cultures

D. Berton Emerson

"Emerson offers fascinating, unexpected readings of popular fictions usually classed as regional, sloppy, or weird—as 'misfits'—within US literary history. A lively, original work."

—Hester Blum, Penn State University
