

The Royal Society of Edinburgh

Environmental Publications

Readers of this volume may be interested in other volumes published by the Society in the past. Over the last 20 years a number of Proceedings B issues have been devoted to papers on Scottish coastal habitats, in some cases providing the only comprehensive accounts of the area. Some of the titles are as follows.

- Marine conservation in Scotland (vol. 100, 1992)
- Coastal sand dunes (vol. 96, 1990)
- The environment of the Tay Estuary (vol. 92, parts 3&4, 1987)
- The marine environment of the Moray Firth (vol. 91, 1986)
- The environment of the Estuary and Firth of Clyde (vol. 90, 1986)
- The oceanography of the Rockall Channel (vol. 88, 1986)
- The marine biology of the Orkney Islands (vol. 87, parts 1&2, 1985/6)
- The natural environment of the Inner Hebrides (vol. 83, 1983)
- The marine environment of Sullom Voe and the implication of oil development (vol. 80, 1981)

The volumes may be ordered from the Society's distributors, CABI, but if you would like further details of the volumes, please contact the Society directly.
