

Law & Society Review Condensed Style Sheet

Type manuscripts double-spaced on one side of the paper only. While manuscripts need not conform to this style sheet at the time of submission, all manuscripts must include an abstract, footnotes, and a list of references, and all accepted manuscripts must be revised by the authors to conform to the Review's style. The rules listed below supplement the manuscript information on the inside front cover of the Review. Authors are urged to consult Review issues in volume 26 or later for further illustrations. A detailed style sheet is available from the Editorial Office.

1. Abstracts. All manuscripts should include an abstract of not more than 100 words. No abstracts are required for review essays or comments.
2. Footnotes. Footnotes should be numbered sequentially (except for the author's footnote) and printed on pages immediately following the text (not at the foot of the page). They should contain only substantive comments and additional references not immediately relevant to the text.
3. Tables and Figures. Tables should approximate the appearance of printed tables. Figures should be camera ready; provide originals, not xerographic copies. Tables and/or figures should be placed at the end of the text, after footnotes, appendices, and references. Their location within the text should be indicated as follows:

Table 1 about here

4. Citations. All notes that consist merely of supporting citations should be placed in parentheses in the text. For example:

In a thoughtful essay, Hayden (1991) . . .

OR

Media stories often portray the civil jury as generous (Daniels & Martin 1986:236; Hans 1989; Huber 1988).

The same general rules apply to footnote text.

5. References. References are placed at the end of the manuscript following the footnotes. The list should contain only those sources actually cited in text or notes. Give authors' names as they appear in the original source. For more than one publication by the same author, list them in chronological order, with the older item first. For more than one publication in one year by the same author, use small (lower-case) letters to distinguish them (e.g., 1970a, 1970b).

BOOKS: Last Name, First Name (year) Title of Book. City: Publisher.

Example: Lerner, Melvin J. (1980) Belief in a Just World. New York: Plenum.

CHAPTER IN EDITED VOLUME:

Example: Glazer, Nathan (1979) "The Judiciary and Social Policy," in L. Theberge, ed., The Judiciary in a Democratic Society. Lexington, MA: Lexington Books.

ARTICLES: Last Name, First Name (Year) "Title of Article," volume number Journal page numbers of article. (Give month or issue number if each issue is separately paginated.)

Examples: Padgett, John F. (1990) "Plea Bargaining in Prohibition," 24 Law & Society Rev. 413-50.

Brill, Steven, & James Lyons ((1986) "The Not-So-Simple Crisis," American Lawyer 12-15 (May).

UNPUBLISHED PAPERS:

Example: Lofquist, William S. (1991) "The Development of Organizational Probation." Presented at American Society of Criminology annual meeting, San Francisco.

All cases cited in text are listed under "Cases Cited" following the References. All statutes cited are listed under "Statutes Cited." For style for cases and statutes, see A Uniform System of Citation.

Cultural Pluralism, Identity Politics, and the Law

Austin Sarat and Thomas R. Kearns, Editors

"The promise of the law is that it will treat all individuals equally, without reference to difference. However, members of cultural minorities are injured in spite of their abilities, achievements or desires; they're injured precisely because of their minority identity. . . . [The book] focuses on important arguments for those interested in probing the limits of the law in relation to local, historicized or contextualized moral standpoints." —Australasian Journal of Philosophy

Law, Violence, and the Possibility of Justice

Edited by Austin Sarat

In this book, a group of leading interdisciplinary legal scholars seeks to map the inexorable but unstable relationship of law to violence. In deeply original essays, the authors build on the seminal work of Robert Cover—one of the few legal scholars ever to consider the question of law and violence. The result is a remarkable volume that stimulates us to reconsider connections that we too often leave unexplored.

Constitutional Politics

Essays on Constitution Making, Maintenance, and Change

Edited by Sotirios A. Barber and Robert P. George

What does it mean to have a constitution? Scholars and students associated with Walter Murphy at Princeton University have long asked this question in their exploration of constitutional politics and judicial behavior. In this collection, Sotirios A. Barber and Robert P. George bring together fourteen essays by members of this Princeton group—some of the most distinguished scholars in the field. The overarching ambition of this collection is to awaken a constitutionalist consciousness in its readers.

On Equal Terms

The Constitutional Politics of Educational Opportunity

Douglas S. Reed

Since Brown v. Board of Education and the desegregation battles of the 1960s and 1970s, the legal pursuit of educational opportunity in the United States has been framed largely around race. But for nearly thirty years now, a less-noticed but controversial legal campaign has been afoot to equalize or improve the resources of poorly funded schools. This book examines both the consequences of efforts to use state constitutional provisions to reduce the "resource segregation" of American schools and the politics of the opposition to these decisions.

In Defense of a Political Court Terri Jennings Peretti

Can the Supreme Court be free of politics? Do we want it to be? Normative constitutional theory has long concerned itself with the legitimate scope and limits of judicial review. Too often, theorists seek to resolve that issue by eliminating politics from constitutional decisionmaking. In contrast, Terri Peretti argues for an openly political role for the Supreme Court.
