ANTHOLOGIES

OF MALAY LITERATURE

General Editor: E. M. F. Payne, O.B.E., M.A., B.Sc.

All who wish to trace the evolution of Malay literature will be interested in these new Malayan anthologies. The extracts, both in prose and verse, come from a wide variety of sources and many are taken from old Malay manuscripts and are published for the first time.

Each volume is written entirely in Malay and contains introductory notes, both historical and biographical. There is an appendix giving an English translation of the introduction, and a Malay-English glossary.

Already published

An Anthology of Malay History

London published price 5s.

Ready July

An Anthology of Malay Poetry

An Anthology of Hindu and Javanese Tales

An Anthology of Malay Folk and Rhapsodist Tales

An Anthology of Malay works from the Arabic and Persian

An Anthology from Cycles of Tales

In preparation

An Anthology of Modern Malay and Indonesian Prose

Each probably 5s.

JOURNAL OF SEMITIC STUDIES

edited by

H. H. ROWLEY, Professor of Hebrew Language and Literature in the University of Manchester,

and

P. R. WEIS, Nathan Laski Senior Lecturer in Post-Biblical Jewish Studies, Manchester,

published with the support of the
ISAAC WOLFSON FOUNDATION

The Journal of Semitic Studies is now in its third year. It has been well received throughout the world both for the scholarship of its articles and for the important book review section.

The field of study is a broad one, and the Journal includes articles of linguistic, literary, historical, archaeological, and cultural interest. Jewish studies are especially represented, covering the whole period of Israel's history, save that current affairs are not included. Arabic and Accadian studies have their place also.

Common Ground said of Volume I, Number 1: "This is a literary venture of the highest importance and, moreover, something in the nature of an innovation. For in this Journal Hebrew and Old Testament literature will be treated in the wider context of Studia Semitica which include Arabic and Accadian. Outstanding scholars have written articles for the early issues and, if we may judge from the standard of the present one, the Journal is assured of a warm welcome from a discerning section of the reading public. Even for the comparative layman there is much which is not only instructive but stimulating."
