

Announcing the publication of the PRC 1998 Economics Blue Book

The award-winning annual PRC Economics Blue Book has long held a preeminent position among those wishing to remain au fait with the current and future trends of economic development and economics research in the PRC. Edited by Liu Guoguang, Wang Luolin and Li Jingwen of the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences, the Blue Books are seen as standard texts for economists within China and abroad. The first authorized English-language translation of this series — the PRC 1998 Economics Blue Book — has now been published by the Centre of Asian Studies of the University of Hong Kong.

Written by prominent economists from throughout China, the 42 chapters examine the economic situation in 1997 and provide forecasts for 1998. Essential for anyone interested in the Chinese economy.

Battling Western Imperialism

Mao, Stalin, and the United States

Michael M. Sheng

One of the central issues in the study of the Chinese Communist Party and its foreign policy is its relations with Moscow. Was the CCP a Chinese nationalist party antagonistic to an intrusive Soviet Union or was it an internationalist party with ideological-political and strategic-military ties to Moscow?

On the basis of extensive new information obtained from recently available Chinese sources, Michael Sheng demonstrates that the foreign policy of the CCP under Mao Zedong did, in fact, follow the directions recommended by Joseph Stalin. Sheng has drawn on an unprecedented collection of Chinese-language materials to make a powerful new argument.

Passivity, Resistance, and Collaboration

Intellectual Choices in Occupied Shanghai,
1937–1945

Poshek Fu

Focusing on the responses of writers in Shanghai to the Japanese occupation, this book corrects the postwar conception of occupied China as a field of conflict between selfless resisters and shameless collaborators by showing a complexity and ambiguity of moral choices that defies such stereotyping.

Negotiating Cooperation

The United States and China,
1969–1989

Robert S. Ross

This book is the definitive account of the conflict-ridden cooperation between the United States and China in the 1970s and 1980s. Conventional wisdom claims Washington and Beijing agreed to 'shelve' conflictual issues at this time in order to enhance security against the USSR.

THE ORIGINAL ANALECTS

Sayings of Confucius and His Successors

E. BRUCE BROOKS AND A. TAEKO BROOKS

"The Original Analects shows the text evolving over 230 years following the Master's death. It identifies and dates each layer of accretion, bringing the text to life, and throwing light on shifts and shades of thought in Warring States China, generation by generation. It represents an exciting new mode of investigation that will require most scholarship on ancient Chinese philosophy to be redone."

JAPANESE AND CHINESE POEMS TO SING

The Wakan Rōei Shū

J. THOMAS RIMER AND
JONATHAN CHAVES, EDITORS

"A collection of gems from Chinese and Japanese poetry, . . . The Wakan rōei shū has since its compilation in the eleventh century played a major role in the shaping of the Japanese literary tradition. Through this new translation, the first of its kind, readers of English can now appreciate the true cultural significance of the work and at the same time savor the many fine poems it includes. All who contributed to the making of this volume merit our heartiest congratulations." —Burton Watson, Columbia University

CONFUCIANISM AND HUMAN RIGHTS

WM. THEODORE DE BARY AND
TU WEIMING, EDITORS

Is the Confucian tradition compatible with the Western understanding of human rights? Are there fundamental human values common to all people? At this critical point in China's history, eighteen distinguished scholars address the role of Confucianism in dealing with questions of universal human rights. For any reader interested in understanding the clash of Western notions of human rights with the ideologies of some Asian regimes, this volume provides a clear, thought-provoking entry to this complex subject.

THE ORIGINS OF THE CULTURAL REVOLUTION

Volume 3: The Coming of the Cataclysm
RODERICK MACFARQUHAR

Why did Mao Zedong launch the cultural revolution that almost destroyed all that he had worked so long and hard to create? This is the final volume in a trilogy that examines the politics, economics, culture, and international relations of China from the mid-1950s to the mid-1960s. The Coming of the Cataclysm focuses on the struggle between Mao and the Chinese Communist Party over the nature and direction of China's post-revolutionary society.
