

Editors' acknowledgements

The idea of a double issue of Bird Conservation International dedicated to the memory of Ted Parker arose when the two of us were in touch over the preparation of an obituary for the British newspaper The Independent. Collar, as journal editor, asked Schulenberg first to fill the place Ted left on the editorial board, and second to take lead responsibility in calling for and marshalling contributions to this issue.

We have many people to thank. At the BirdLife International Secretariat, we express our great debt to D. J. Brooks and R. Pfaff for their extensive professional work on the typescripts prior to setting, without which our schedule would have been completely lost. We acknowledge the exceptional role played by D. F. Stotz, who reviewed five typescripts and contributed greatly to their improvement, and by A. J. Long, who did likewise with three papers. We thank all other referees of these papers, some of whom also figure as authors: S. R. Beissinger, B. J. Best, R. O. Bierregaard, M. Cohn-Haft, C. C. Farquhar, S. L. Hilty, W. M. Jackson, M. G. Kelsey, J. V. Remsen and J. M. Wunderle. In addition, we thank J. Goerck, T. A. Mulliken, R. S. Ridgely, T. Wachter and D. C. Wege for their help with various matters, and H. M. Farrell and G. Edwards for their considerable parts in bringing the texts to press. Finally we pay tribute to all the authors for their uniformly prompt and positive cooperation with us over a very short time-span at the start of this year, which has allowed this issue to appear in time to mark the second anniversary of the devastating loss of our friend, colleague and mentor.
