A COMPARATIVE DICTIONARY OF THE INDO-ARYAN LANGUAGES

ADDENDA AND CORRIGENDA

R. L. Turner, Edited by J. C. Wright

Sir Ralph Turner's A Comparative Dictionary of the Indo-aryan Languages, comprising some 140,000 words arranged under the 15,000 Sanskrit or Sanskrit-related etyma from which they appear to derive, was published by Oxford University Press in 1966. It was followed by Indexes (1969) and a Phonetic Analysis of the entire corpus of the material (1971). Described as 'one of the most outstanding events in the history of Indian linguistic studies', it took its place as a basis for all subsequent research beside Grierson's monumental Linguistic Survey of India (1903-27), of which it was long intended to form the concluding volume.

Subsequently Sir Ralph compiled a further 12,000 slips, noting and indexing new attestations and etymologies taken from works published since 1966. These provide additional data relating, for the most part, to Kacchī, West Pahāri, Garhwāli, Assamese, Old Mārwarī, Brajbhāṣā, Maldivian, and the Shughni group of Iranian border languages, as well as Sanskrit. The scope of the Dictionary is thereby extended particularly in respect of the peripheral dialects, which have been less exposed to loss of inherited vocabulary due to the inroads of Persian, English and Sanskrit.

Sir Ralph died in 1983, in his 95th year. Until a few days before his death he was still engaged upon a final revision of this volume. It has been prepared for and seen through the press by Professor J. C. Wright, Professor of Sanskrit in the University of London.

SHARĪ'A IN SONGHAY: THE REPLIES OF AL-MAGHĪLĪ TO THE QUESTIONS OF ASKIA AL-ĤĀJJ MUĤAMMAD

Edited and translated with an introduction and commentary by
JOHN O. HUNWICK

The present volume contains a critical Arabic text of the Questions and Replies and an English translation of them. The document is set in its historical context by an introduction on the history of Islam in the Middle Niger down to 1500 and the points of Islamic law contained in it are discussed in a subsequent commentary. The importance of the document lies not only in the effect it had on Askia Muḥammad's policies in the early sixteenth century, but equally in the effect it had on the policies of a number of nineteenth-century West African Muslim rulers who sought to create Islamic states in areas of what are now Mali and Nigeria.
