Luther's Theology of the Cross

Martin Luther on Justification 1509–1519

ALISTER E. McGRATH

---

This book re-examines Luther's theological breakthrough in the light of late medieval thought. It demonstrates how immediately intelligible his difficulties are when approached in this manner, and documents his gradual break with the accepted theology of the day.

Greek Religion

Archaic and Classical

---

This, the first major book on Greek religion to appear for a generation, deals with the Mycenaean origins of religious practices, rituals and holy places, individual gods, worship of the dead, the city and the organization of religion, mystery cults and philosophy of religion.

512 pages, £29.50 (0 631 11241 3)

Darwinism and Divinity

Essays on Evolution and Religious Belief

Edited by JOHN DURANT

---

The theory of evolution has always posed serious problems for religious belief – how can the notions of Creation and Providence be reconciled with the idea that life evolved over millions of years through a 'struggle for existence'? Distinguished historians, social scientists, philosophers, anthropologists and theologians here provide the first multi-disciplinary review of the relationship between evolution and religious belief. The contributors include Jim Moore, Eileen Barker, Arthur Peacocke, and Mary Midgley.

240 pages, £15.00 (0 631 14188 X)

The Anthropology of Evil

Edited by DAVID PARKIN

---

This book provides for the first time an anthropological perspective on one of the most intriguing and disturbing problems of the natural and human worlds – the nature of evil. It discusses radically different approaches adopted in the context for different societies and religions.

288 pages, £22.50 (0 631 13717 3)

The Bible in the Medieval World

Essays in Memory of Beryl Smalley

Edited by KATHARINE WALSH and DIANA WOOD

---

Beryl Smalley's lifelong study of medieval biblical scholarship was undoubtedly a substantial achievement. In recognition of this contribution, a distinguished group of colleagues has produced these specially-commissioned essays on all aspects of the subject – political, social, intellectual, and religious.

Monks, Hermits and the Ascetic Tradition

Studies in Church History, Volume 22

Edited by W.J. SHEILS

Throughout Christian history moral and spiritual exercise to train the character to virtue has played a significant part. These essays chart the growth of the ascetic tradition and ideal from New Testament times to the present day.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

1. Contributions and books for review should be sent to the new Editor, Professor S. R. Sutherland, King's College, Strand, London, WC2R 2LS.
2. Articles submitted to the journal should in general be between 5,000 and 10,000 words long, though articles outside these limits will be acceptable if there is some good reason for their exceptional length or brevity. Articles in two or more parts may occasionally be accepted provided each part is independently intelligible. They should normally be in English.
3. Submission of an article is taken to imply that it has not previously been published, or is not being considered for publication elsewhere.
4. Contributions should be clearly typed in double spacing, preferably on A4 paper, with a wide left-hand margin. The typescript should be prepared to accord as closely as possible with the typographical conventions of the journal.
5. Footnotes should be used sparingly: in general, to give sources of direct quotations, references to main authorities on disputable questions, and evidence relied on for a new or unusual conclusion. They should be numbered in one sequence throughout the article, and should preferably be typed in double spacing at the end of the article.
6. Contributors should keep one copy of the typescript for correcting proofs.
7. First proofs may be read and corrected by contributors provided that they can give the Editor an address through which they can be reached without delay and can guarantee to return the corrected proofs to the Editor, by airmail where necessary, within ten days of receiving them.
8. Correction should be kept to an absolute minimum. It should be confined to errors of the typist or printer unless the Editor authorises otherwise.
9. All contributions of articles receive 50 free offprints. Reviews will receive five or more offprints of their reviews.
10. If rejected manuscripts are to be returned, stamps or international coupons should be sent to cover postage, but it would normally be simpler just to retain a copy.
11. Contributors of accepted articles will be asked to assign their copyrights, on certain conditions, to Cambridge University Press, to help protect their material, particularly in the USA.
