THE REVIEW OF POLITICS

A General Cultural Journal with a dominantly political and historical appraisal of current problems in world affairs

The Idea

"It was apparent at once that we did not want a political or historical review construed in any narrow sense, although we had no instinct to ignore the presentation, in the way of science, of facts, techniques and processes. What we desired was a kind of universal publication drawing constantly upon the past and ranging into every serious field of intellectual action. We wanted, actually, to revive the Aristotelian conception of politics, a sovereign conception that embraced everything, every interest, every event, every idea affecting the life of man in the human community. Even more, we wanted to bring to bear upon the special problems raised by modern culture the illumination of a valid spiritual and philosophical tradition, an illumination best described perhaps as the Christian world-view."

The Appeals of Communism

By Gabriel A. Almond

Why do people join the Communist Party? What happens after they have joined? Why do some of them leave? This study, based on a four-year program of depth interviews with former American, British, French, and Italian Communists provides many answers to these questions. It gives a convincing insight into the motivations, tensions, and loyalties of party members, and provides basic information necessary for an intelligent approach to the Communist problem. 432 pages. $6.
