The 2010 APSA Workshop on Global Perspectives on Politics and Gender: Dar es Salaam, Tanzania, July 18 –August 6, 2010

Helena Saele, Program Associate, International and External Relations

The APSA Workshop on Global Perspectives on Politics and Gender was convened in Dar es Salaam, Tanzania, from July 18 to August 6. It was the third annual residential workshop of a multi-year initiative that APSA is organizing in sub-Saharan Africa from 2008 through 2014. The first workshop took place in Dakar, Senegal (2008), at the facilities of the West African Research Center; the second workshop was convened in Accra, Ghana (2009), at the Institute for African Studies and the University of Ghana, Legon.

This workshop series is generously supported by a grant from the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation and is a key part of APSA efforts to support the development of applied research networks linking U.S.-based scholars with colleagues overseas and supporting political science communities outside the United States.

The Dar es Salaam workshop was hosted by the Gender Centre at the University of Dar es Salaam, Tanzania. It brought together 26 political scientists: 18 Africa-based participants from 11 different countries and four U.S.-based participants who were competitively selected last spring, in addition to the four workshop leaders (two U.S.-based, two Africa-based). This diverse group included 18 women and eight men, as well as scholars ranging in age from their twenties to their early fifties. The full roster included:

- Olajide Akanji, Nigeria
- Agnes Apusigah, Ghana
- Bonnie Ayodele, Nigeria
- Naima Benlarabi, Morocco
- Lotsmart N. Fonjong, Cameroon
- Peace Medie, Ghana
- Chiseche Salome Mibenge, Zambia
- Sethunya Mosime, Botswana
- Olajumoke Yacob-Haliso, Nigeria
- Uchenna Idoko, Nigeria
- Oyeleye Oyelade Dairo, Nigeria
- Daniel Kere, Burkina Faso
