The Pacific Review

Editor: Dr. Gerald Segal, University of Bristol

Launched in Spring 1988, The Pacific Review provides:
'a lively and important new source of serious analysis of the nations of the Pacific rim.' (Times Literary Supplement, August 1988)

The Pacific Review is ★ the first journal of its kind to present a European viewpoint on Pacific policies ★ more controversial than most other journals in its field ★ written in a lively and informative style ★ global in its perspective and not narrowly concerned with the interests of a single nation ★ authoritative and comprehensive in its field ★

Contributions to early issues include:

Nathaniel B. Thayer Race, Culture and Japanese Politics

Lillian Craig Harris Towards Taiwan's Independence?

Sir John Harvey-Jones Britain, Japan and the Pacific: Can Britain Compete?

Robert O'Neill Securing Security in the Pacific

Michael Yahuda Thinking Pacific
