

TWO ESSENTIAL VOLUMES ON THE LIFE AND WORKS OF JOHN WESLEY

John Wesley's Social Ethics : Praxis and Principles

Manfred Marquardt

Translated by John E. Steely and W. Stephen Gunter

This study examines the actual praxis of Wesley's Methodism and shows how that praxis is rooted in and flows from his fundamental theological principles. Marquardt offers a balanced view of Wesley as both an evangelist and a social reformer whose theological and spiritual concerns were catalytic in his social program. This volume encourages us to rethink the importance of theology in the social ethics of the Methodist tradition.

The Works of John Wesley, Volume 21: Journals and Diaries IV.

Edited by Richard P. Heitzenrater

This fourth volume of Wesley's Journal covers a significant period of consolidation in the Wesleyan revival during the decade from early 1755 to the middle of 1765. In vivid detail Wesley describes his journeys throughout the British Isles, controversial issues that arose within the Church, and the growth of the Methodist movement, especially into the central portions of England, and its spread into the farther reaches of Ireland and Scotland.

Marcello Cervini and Ecclesiastical Government in Tridentine Italy

WILLIAM V. HUDON

In this revisionist biography, Hudon offers a richly detailed study of Marcello Cervini, long regarded as one of the most important participants in the Tridentine reformation. Hudon traces Cervini's life and career, which culminated in his appointment as Pope Marcellus II, and shows how Cervini profoundly influenced reform before, during, and after the Council of Trent. Drawing from a wealth of sources, including Cervini's personal correspondence with politicians, artists, and ecclesiastical figures, Hudon illuminates the role of the church in sixteenth-century Italy.

Quest for the Absolute

The Philosophical Vision of Joseph Maréchal

ANTHONY M. MATTEO

This first full-length study of Maréchal to appear in English provides a clear reading of the complex thought of an important twentieth-century philosopher and theologian. Drawing on Le point de départ de la métaphysique, Matteo shows how Maréchal laid the groundwork for the integration of the Aristotelian-Thomistic ontological approach to knowledge and the transcendental analysis inaugurated by Kant. He applies Maréchal's thought to twentieth-century issues and shows how it is especially relevant to current debates concerning the foundations of rationality and cognitive relativism.

A View Of the Papacy

THE PAPACY

Bernhard Schimmelpfennig translated by James Sievert

Whereas previous books on this subject have dealt only with individual popes, The Papacy is a unique history of the institution of the papacy.

Schimmelpfennig addresses the evolution of the liturgical and political character of the Catholic Church from the Roman Empire to the Middle Ages. Topics also discussed are the significance of Rome as the physical setting of the Vatican, and the degree to which papal power was able to form the city around it.

"The book is as learned as it is delightful to read—a pleasure for the general reader as well as for the scholar who will appreciate both Schimmelpfennig's wit and style and the well-selected bibliography."

NATURE LOST?

Natural Science and the German
Theological Traditions of the Nineteenth Century

Frederick Gregory

"Nature Lost? integrates nineteenth-century German philosophy, theology, and science in the best tradition of intellectual history and the history of philosophy. It is an informative and skillful analysis of the different ways in which influential Protestant theologians in Germany addressed the problem of reconciling new scientific theories, especially Darwinism, with theology. This is a valuable and important book."

COUNTERTRADITIONS IN THE BIBLE

A Feminist Approach

Ilana Pardes

In this eye-opening and polemically witty book, Ilana Pardes explores the tense dialogue between dominant patriarchal discourses of the Bible and counter female voices. Pardes studies women's plots and subplots, dreams, and pursuits, uncovering the diverse and at times conflicting figurations of femininity in biblical texts. She also sketches the ways in which antipatriarchal elements intermingle with other repressed elements in the Bible.

URBAN MASSES AND MORAL ORDER IN AMERICA, 1820-1920

Paul Boyer

"Into his epic tale Boyer introduces a fascinating assortment of movements and people . . . It is excellent at invoking the excitement surrounding the birth of now commonplace features of the urban landscape . . . Its true achievement lies in the imaginative weaving together of such a diverse collection of measures and men into a single compelling story, which ultimately is the story of the modernization of America."

THE BROKEN STAFF

Judaism through Christian Eyes

Frank E. Manuel

"This is a fascinating story, told by a master historian. The reception of Jewish thought, and the appraisal of Jewish doctrine and practice, by European scholars in the years from the Renaissance to the Enlightenment makes an illuminating contrast to the reception and appraisal of Greece and Rome—so much more ambiguous, tortured, and ominous. With learning and insight, Frank Manuel gives us the other half of the history of Europe's recovery of its past."

THE ALBERT C. OUTLER PRIZE IN ECUMENICAL CHURCH HISTORY

The Outler Prize was established to encourage the critical study of ecumenical church history, broadly conceived, and to facilitate the publication of such studies. "Ecumenical" is to be construed as chiefly concerned with the problems of Christian unity-and-disunity (doctrinal, cultural, institutional) in any period of church history; or with interactions between Christianity and other religious movements. Works of a partisan nature are excluded. The following categories are eligible:

- b. Analyses of church councils, dialogues, and debates, or interactions between Christianity and other religious traditions.
- c. Biographical studies of significant leaders, or of persons whose involvement in ecumenical dialogue and action was noteworthy.
- d. Critical editions (preferably annotated) of significant ecumenical documents.

The prize consists of an award of $1000 to the author and a possible grant of up to $3000 for publication (or in exceptional cases, for necessary expenses in the preparation of a book-length manuscript accepted for publication). The prize will be awarded annually, though no award will be made in any year when none of the manuscripts is adjudged to be outstanding. AMERICAN SOCIETY OF CHURCH HISTORY
Membership Information

The American Society of Church History was founded in 1888 by Philip Schaff and a group of colleagues. It is affiliated with the American Historical Association. Its purpose is to foster interest in the history of Christianity, and its interrelationship with its cultural context by encouraging research, writing, and teaching in this discipline.

The membership of the society consists of scholars, men and women, the majority of whom serve on faculties of colleges, universities, and seminaries. Others are archivists, clergy members, professional writers, and students, or simply those who have a serious interest in church history. The society is ecumenical in character, comprising members of various religious persuasions.

In addition to Church History, a journal published quarterly, the society holds an annual meeting in conjunction with the American Historical Association and a spring meeting on the campus of a host institution. The meeting programs and the journal provide opportunities for exploring a wide variety of subjects and the exchange of thought. Membership dues entitle one to receive the journal, with its informative articles and large book review section, and attend the meetings of the society.

In order to interest younger scholars, particularly those of ethnic minorities, in the work of the society, the council has voted to offer a dues-free membership (up to two years) to all graduate students working in the area of church history at an accredited institution upon the approval of a professor who is also a member of the society.
