

WHEN THE LIGHTS WENT OUTA History of Blackouts in AmericaDavid E. Nye

Examining electricity's increasingly central role in American society, David Nye looks at power outages from 1935 to the present, not simply as technical failures but also variously as military tactics, social disruption, crisis in the networked city, the outcome of political and economic decisions and memories enshrined in photographs.

306 pp. (26 illus.)£20.95 • cloth • 978-0-262-01374-1*A VAST MACHINEComputer Models, Climate Data, and the Politics of Global WarmingPaul N. Edwards

Global warming skeptics often argue the need to wait for real data, that the case for global warming is based only on model predictions and simulations. In A Vast Machine Paul Edwards has news for these doubters: without models, there is no data. Today, no collection of signals or observations becomes global in time and space without passing through a series of data models. Edwards offers an engaging and innovative history of how scientists learned to understand the atmosphere — to measure it, trace its past, and model its future.

528 pp. (74 illus.) • May£24.95 • cloth • 978-0-262-01392-5*THERMOPOETICSEnergy in Victorian Literature and ScienceBarri J. Gold

Charting the simultaneous emergence of the laws of thermodynamics in literature and in physics that began in the 1830s, Barri Gold finds that not only can science influence literature, but literature can influence science. Gold's original readings of works by Alfred Tennyson, Charles Dickens, Herbert Spencer, Bram Stoker and Oscar Wilde offer a decidedly literary introduction to elements of thermodynamic thought.

This book examines the invention of modernity through the construction of an urban-centered, industrial-based culture, by looking at the dynamic connecting urban planning, museums, educational institutions, and expositions in Paris, London, Chicago, Berlin and Tokyo from 1870 to 1930.

"This is a very impressive book, containing numerous new and innovative ideas and interpretations of the life and work of Arnold Sommerfeld and the school of students he led. A major contribution and a stirring history of some of the key players in quantum theory."

— Andrew Warwick, Imperial College, London

This study offers an account of twentieth-century technology in the Netherlands and a view of Dutch history through the lens of technology. It describes the trajectory of modernisation through technology in certain characteristically Dutch contexts, but at the same time makes it clear that Dutch struggles over technology choices, infrastructure development, mass production and the role of government are comparable to the experience of any Western industrialised country.

Arabic Sciences and Philosophy (ASP) is an international journal devoted to the Arabic sciences, mathematics and philosophy in the world of Islam between the eighth and eighteenth centuries, in a cross-cultural context. In 2009, the journal extended its scope to include important papers on scientific modernization from the nineteenth century in the Islamic world. Together with original studies on the history of all these fields, ASP also offers work on the inter-relations between Arabic and Greek, Indian, Chinese, Latin, Byzantine, Syriac and Hebrew sciences and philosophy. Casting new light on the growth of these disciplines, as well as on the social and ideological context in which this growth took place, ASP is essential reading for those interested in these areas.

THE BRITISH SOCIETY FOR THE HISTORY OF SCIENCE

Membership of the Society, which includes a subscription to The British Journal for the History of Science, is open to all persons approved by the Council of the Society and elected at an ordinary meeting. The annual subscription for the membership year 2010 is £41.00 ($66.00) or £22.00 ($34.00 or €32) for associate membership, which includes students at centres of higher education. There is an Introductory Offer for ordinary members who pay £33.00 (£66.00) for the first year. Applications for membership should be made on a form available from the Society's Executive Secretary at the address below. Payment may be made by cheque or credit card.

The British Journal for the History of Science is the official organ of the Society. All correspondence on the contents of the Journal should be addressed to the Editor, Jon Agar, Department of Science and Technology Studies, University College London, London WC1E 6BT, email ucrjhea@ucl.ac.uk

Book reviews: Books for review should be sent to the Reviews Editor, Dr Adam Mosley, School of Arts and Humanities: History and Classics, Swansea University, Singleton Park, Swansea, SA2 8PP, Wales, United Kingdom.

BSHS publications: BSHS Monograph Series is designed to allow the publication of monographic studies in the history of science quickly and cheaply. All correspondence on the subject of monographs should be sent to The Executive Secretary, 5 Woodcote Green, Fleet, Hants, GU51 4EY. Twelve monographs are currently available.

Recent titles are as follows:

Images of the Earth: Essays in the History of the Environmental Sciences. Edited by L. J. Jordanova and R. Porter. Second edition. 1997. £17.

Science in Art: Works in the National Gallery that illustrate the History of Science and Technology. By J. V. Field and F. A. J. L. James. 1997. £15.

To See the Fellows Fight: Eye-witness accounts of meetings of the Geological Society of London and its Club, 1822-1868. By J. C. Thackray. 2003. £15.

The Society's newsletter, Viewpoint, an informal publication, appears three times a year. It is free to members, £10.00 (£20.00) for institutions and non-members from the Executive Secretary.

Administrative business of the Society is handled by Lucy Tetlow, Executive Secretary, British Society for the History of Science, PO Box 3401, Norwich, NR7 7JF.
