The Ancient Near East

An Anthology of Texts and Pictures

Edited by James B. Pritchard

Foreword by Daniel E. Fleming

- Represents the diverse cultures and languages of the ancient Near East—Sumerian, Akkadian, Egyptian, Hittite, Ugaritic, Canaanite, and Aramaic—in a wide range of genres
- New foreword puts the classic translations in context
- More than 300 photographs document ancient art, architecture, and artifacts related to the texts
- Fully indexed

“There is no other anthology on the ancient Near East with this breadth of geographical and linguistic coverage, or with this variety of genres, from the literary and historical to the legal, epistolary, and religious.”

—Francesca Rochberg, University of California, Berkeley

Paper $39.50 978-0-691-14726-0

Cloth $85.00 978-0-691-14725-3

Alexander the Great and His Empire

A Short Introduction

Pierre Briant

Translated by Amélie Kuhrt

“Pierre Briant is a scholar of the highest international standing. His book is set apart from the plethora of biographies of Alexander the Great by its focus on his origins and aims, the way he administered and organized his empire, and especially his impact on the areas he conquered, the last of which almost no other books address.”

—Ian Worthington, author of Alexander the Great

Imperialism, Power, and Identity

Experiencing the Roman Empire

David J. Mattingly

“Mattingly critically examines accepted ideas about the Roman Empire and evaluates them on the basis of recent archaeological analyses. He provides excellent, up-to-date discussions of such issues as Roman imperialism, colonialism, and the expression of identity through material culture. This book will be important in providing a set of new ideas about many current themes regarding the Roman world.”

—Peter S. Wells, author of The Barbarians Speak

Cloth $39.95 978-0-691-14605-8

The Cattle of the Sun

Cows and Culture in the World of the Ancient Greeks

Jeremy McInerney

“Through the Greeks’ apparent devotion to agriculture and our modern overvaluing of that agriculture, we have failed to perceive the essential pastoral ethos of ancient Greek life. Once we put aside our blinders, we see that many aspects of Greek culture, most prominently large-animal sacrifice and public feasting, are attributable to a long devotion to bovid production. This engaging and confident book argues the idea convincingly.”

—David Tandy, University of Tennessee

Cloth $45.00 978-0-691-14007-0

The Symptom and the Subject

The Emergence of the Physical Body in Ancient Greece

Brooke Holmes

“The Symptom and the Subject is intellectually challenging, beautifully written, deeply thought out, and closely researched in primary and secondary materials. I found myself utterly engrossed by its arguments.”

—James I. Porter, University of California, Irvine

NOTES TO CONTRIBUTORS

1. Reviews should be double-spaced on A4. Footnotes should be numbered consecutively, although references should normally be incorporated in the text, not in footnotes, which should be used as sparingly as possible. At the end of the review your name should be given in capitals on the right hand side, your institution (or home town) underlined or italicised on the left.
2. Please send your review as an e-mail attachment to classicalreview@classicalassociation.org. If you use a word-processing package other than Microsoft Word, or if you use a Mac computer, it would be a useful precaution to paste the review into an e-mail message as well as sending it as an attachment. If your review contains Greek or any other special characters, please supply a pdf file as well, or send a hard copy by post to Classical Review, The Classical Association, Senate House, Malet Street, London WC1E 7HU, UK; otherwise it is not necessary to send a hard copy. Greek should, if possible, be typed in Unicode using Porson font. Submissions by e-mail will be acknowledged on receipt.
3. Quotations in English, Latin, French, etc., should be put in single inverted commas. A quotation within a quoted passage has double inverted commas. Single words or self-contained phrases (such as fait accompli) may be underlined to indicate italics. Material inserted within a quotation is placed in square brackets.
4. References should normally be given in the following form:

BOOKS

R. Syme, The Roman Revolution (1939), pp. 78–9 or op. cit., pp. 78–9.

E. Norden, Die antike Kunstprosa<sup>5</sup> I.164–81

or op. cit. I.164–81.

F. Jacoby, FGrHist 328 F 4.

Authors' initials should be stated, at least at their first mention. Abbreviations should not be assigned to books unless they are generally familiar (e.g. OCD<sup>2</sup> omitting full points).

ARTICLES

points; do not use l. or ll., but, where necessary, line or lines). B.C. should appear after,

A.D. before, the number of the year. The following should not be italicised: op. cit., loc.

cit, cf., ibid., s.v.

5. It is a condition of publication in the journal that authors assign an exclusive licence to The Classical Association. This ensures that requests from third parties to reproduce articles are handled efficiently and consistently and will also allow the article to be as widely disseminated as possible. As part of the licence agreement, authors may use their own material in other publications provided that the journal is acknowledged as the original place of publication, and Cambridge University Press as the publisher.

THE CLASSICAL ASSOCIATION

The Classical Association has a worldwide membership and is open to all who value the study of the languages, literature, and civilisations of ancient Greece and Rome. It creates opportunities for friendly exchange and co-operation among classicists, encourages scholarship through its journals and other publications, and supports classics in schools and universities. Every year it holds an annual conference, and it sponsors branches all over the country which put on programmes of lectures and other activities.

The Classical Association has about 3,500 members. Members receive the Presidential Address once a year and a newsletter, CA News, twice a year. They may also subscribe at substantially reduced cost to the Classical Association journals Classical Quarterly, Classical Review, and Greece & Rome.

For more information and a membership application form please contact the Secretary, The Classical Association, Senate House, Malet Street, London WC1E 7HU (tel: +44 (0)20 7862 8706, e-mail: office@classicalassociation.org). The Secretary can also give information about the reduced journal subscription rates, and about the Association's other occasional publications.

THE CLASSICAL REVIEW ONLINE

The Classical Review publishes informative reviews from leading scholars on new work covering the literatures and civilizations of ancient Greece and Rome. Publishing over 300 high-quality reviews and 50 brief notes every year, The Classical Review is an indispensable reference tool, essential for keeping abreast with current classical scholarship.
