THE PERUVIAN ECONOMY AND STRUCTURAL ADJUSTMENT: PAST, PRESENT, AND FUTURE

edited by Efraín Gonzales de Olarte

Nine distinguished economists analyze Peru's economic situation, review its background, and forecast the nation's economic future. Among the topics covered are analyses of the history of long-term changes, reforms, and economic stabilization programs and current institutional and economic structures, focusing on the dynamic sectors, including coca and cocaine. The structural adjustment program's principal areas of concern are discussed: diversification of productivity, unemployment, unequal income distribution, encouragement of entrepreneurial leadership, and sustained reform. In addition, this work includes analyses of the role of the real exchange rate in macroeconomic policy and several scenarios based on a financial model that forecasts the Peruvian economy's behavior during the next few years.

Efraín Gonzales de Olarte is a senior researcher at the Instituto de Estudios Peruanos in Lima.
