New from CPD Online

CPD ONLINE

CPD Online is an e-learning resource offered by the Royal College of Psychiatrists. The website contains a range of learning modules and podcasts that provide a flexible, interactive way of keeping up to date with progress in mental health. College members may use CPD Online for up to 25 CPD points in the UK. Access to the modules is through annual subscription, but we offer a series of free trial modules. For more information, visit the CPD Online website: www.psychiatrycpd.org.

Recent modules and podcasts

The management of hyperprolactinemia in psychiatric practice

Some medications prescribed by psychiatrists elevate prolactin levels. This can lead to adverse health outcomes. Develop your awareness of the symptoms of hyperprolactinemia and find out how best to manage the consequences, supported by a good understanding of prolactin physiology and regulation. CPD credits: 1.5

Treating depression in later life

Depression in later life is common but treatable. Optimal management is challenging because later-life depression has different aetiological factors and comorbidities and because of the interplay with cognitive impairment and dementia. This module will guide you through the presentation, appropriate investigations, management and available treatments for late-life depression. This is a substantial revision of a previous module, by new authors. CPD credits: 1.5

Quickbite module Monitoring and managing the renal adverse effects of lithium

Lithium is an established treatment for bipolar disorder and an augmenting agent for depression. However, despite proven effectiveness, renal adverse effects of lithium are common and close monitoring is essential. Find out how to look for signs of adverse effects in this 30-minute Quickbite module. CPD credits: 0.5

Podcast C.G. Jung's approach to life and psychotherapy

Tony Woolfson talks to Raj Persaud about Jung's approach to psychotherapy, adding a historical perspective and touching on the differences between Jungian and Freudian theory. CPD credits: 0.5
