THE JOURNAL OF AFRICAN HISTORY

"This is the basic and recognised journal in the field of African History...very useful and substantial book review section..."

Magazines for Libraries

The Journal of African History, established in 1960, publishes articles and reviews which range over the African past from the beginnings of food production to the 1960s. In recent years there has been much emphasis on economic history and on African politics in the later colonial period, while the journal has also explored several themes of growing interest to historians of other regions:

- gender roles
- demography
- health and hygiene
- propaganda
- legal ideology
- labour histories
- nationalism and resistance
- custodial institutions
- the construction of ethnicity
- ideas of time
- photographs as historical sources
- slavery and the slave trade
- the interpretation of oral tradition
