SYMPOSIUM PROCEEDINGS

One Hundred and Twenty-third Scientific Meeting

RUMEN FUNCTION

|  |     |
|--|-----|
| Structure of the ruminant stomach and the movement of its contents. By C. C. BALCH                       | 97  |
| Metabolism of carbohydrates by rumen bacteria. By B. H. HOWARD   | 103 |
| Protein utilization by the dairy cow. By M. J. HEAD  | 108 |
| Lipids in relation to rumen function. By G. A. GARTON  | 112 |
| Milk composition in relation to rumen metabolism. By J. A. F. ROOK                                       | 117 |
| Some aspects of rumen ciliate protozoa. By J. MARGARET EADIE   | 123 |
| The treatment and prevention of bloat with anti-foaming agents. By C. S. W. REID                         | 127 |
| The rumen in relation to the animal. By A. T. PHILLIPSON   | 131 |
| The application of recent scientific information through the feeding-stuffs industry.By J. K. D. Dow | 134 |

One Hundred and Twenty-fourth Scientific Meeting

OBESITY

|   |     |
|---|-----|
| Obesity and disease: Chairman's opening remarks. By A. P. MEIKLEJOHN              | 140 |
| Obesity and the control of food intake in experimental animals. By S. D. MORRISON | 141 |
| The measurement of body fat in man. By J. M. TANNER                               | 148 |
| Some aspects of metabolism of the obese. By G. L. S. PAWAN                        | 155 |
| The management of the obese patient. By KATHLEEN ROSE                             | 162 |

ABSTRACTS OF COMMUNICATIONS

One Hundred and Twenty-second Scientific Meeting

|  |       |
|--|-------|
| Commercial breads as sources of vitamin E for rats as determined by the haemolysis test. By I. M. SHARMAN and PAMELA J. RICHARDS                                       | xvii  |
| Evaluation of faecal nitrogen as an index of herbage digestibility by means of a continuous digestibility trial. By J. F. D. GREENHALGH, I. McDONALD and J. L. CORBETT | xviii |
| Micro-organisms in the rumen of goats eating an artificial diet deficient in riboflavin, lysine and tryptophan. By E. C. OWEN and R. PROUDFOOT                         | xix   |
| The assay of antirachitic activity in man. By H. G. MORGAN, W. C. THOMAS, Jr., C. E. BILLS and J. E. HOWARD  | xix   |
| The effect of low-level feeding of chlortetracycline on rumen fermentation in early-weaned calves. By T. R. PRESTON, P. K. DINDA and N. A. MACLEOD                     | xx    |
| Differences in yield and composition between first and second lactations. By F. E. HYTEN   | xxi   |
| Effect of reduced intake of greenstuff on $\beta$ -carotene and vitamin A in goat colostrum. By E. C. OWEN and R. PROUDFOOT  | xxii  |

One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Scientific Meeting

|  |       |
|--|-------|
| Pancreatic fibrosis and calcification in Uganda Africans. By A. G. SHAPER  | xxiii |
| The relationship between excitability of the central nervous system, food intake and body growth. By J. LÁT  | xxiv  |
| The effect of dietary sorbitol and related substances on the vitamin B requirements of the rat. By VALMAI M. HEDLEY and JOHN YUDKIN                                  | xxiv  |
| Avoidance of sucrose by rats deprived of thiamine. By JOHN YUDKIN  | xxv   |
| Avoidance of sucrose, and choice of sorbitol, by rats deprived of thiamine. By T. B. MORGAN and JOHN YUDKIN  | xxvi  |
| A comparison of results obtained for protein value of U.K. diets using chemical (F.A.O.) and biological (N.D-p.v.) methods. By ELIZABETH ANNE DRURY and D. S. MILLER | xxvi  |
