Editorial Policy

International Legal Materials is a collection of current documents designed to provide up-to-date information to scholars, practicing lawyers, legal advisers to government agencies and corporations, national and international officials, and others concerned with the legal aspects of public and private international relations. These documents primarily consist of current materials not readily available in most libraries.

The term international law is interpreted broadly for the purposes of this publication. Some of the materials may be of a kind normally classified under other rubrics, such as foreign law, comparative law, conflict of laws, constitutional law, international organization, and the like. The main criterion in selecting materials is that the document be of substantial interest to a large number of legal scholars, practicing lawyers and officials dealing with public and private international matters. It is recognized that these interests may vary considerably among users of the publication in the United States and elsewhere.

International Legal Materials reproduces by photo-offset the official documents whenever possible. In some instances, the documents are reproduced from unofficial typescript when texts are unavailable or when a translation is given. A short "I.L.M. Background/Content Summary" precedes each document to assist in reviewing the materials. On occasion, "Introductory Notes" also accompany documents. The authors of such notes are identified.

Readers are invited to draw the Editor's attention to documents meriting reproduction in International Legal Materials.

EDITORIAL NOTE

This 1980-1989 Index for International Legal Materials is a reference tool that makes the raw materials of ILM during the past decade alive and accessible, with additional information about the documents provided in the Tables at the front.

We have included entry into force dates for treaties and agreements or, if they had not yet entered into force as of December 31, 1989, we have indicated that so you may pursue your own investigation of entry into force. The Index contains some 100 general subject headings as well as geographic areas, countries, conferences, and international organizations. Please take a moment and review the instructions on page iii on "How to Use the Index".

International Legal Materials is indebted to Samuel W. Bettwy for indexing the 1980s volumes of ILM containing over 15,500 pages of documentary materials. The final product is the work and effort of a number of persons associated with ILM. Marie-Louise H. Bernal, Americo Beviglia Zampetti, Jason M. Jacobs, Therese D. Raphael, Katherine E. Snow and Tim S. Steenstrup assisted in obtaining the information for the Tables at the front; and special thanks goes to Rachel de la Vega for assembling the materials and overseeing the final stages of production. We trust our efforts have resulted in a useful index.
