

ROYAL MUSICAL ASSOCIATION

Volume 135 Special Issue 1 2010

Listening: Interdisciplinary Perspectives
edited by Nikolaus Bacht

CONTENTS

Introduction Nikolaus Bacht	1
Do Musical Works Contain an Implied Listener? Towards a Theory of Musical Listening John Butt	5
'For whom the bell tolls': Listening and its Implications (Response to John Butt) David R. M. Irving	19
Listening, Ancient and Modern William Fitzgerald	25
Sound Gazes? (Response to William Fitzgerald) Ben Etherington	39
Listening and Responding to the Evidence of Early Twentieth-Century Performance Daniel Leech-Wilkinson	45
Canned Laughter (Response to Daniel Leech-Wilkinson) Lydia Goehr	63
Listening as Covert Performance Ian Cross	67
Listening, Mediation, Event: Anthropological and Sociological Perspectives Georgina Born	79
'Take Heed What Ye Hear': Listening as a Moral, Transcendental and Sacramental Act Bernd Wannewetsch	91
Listening to the Other: A Counter-Cultural Ear in iPodic Times (Response to Bernd Wannewetsch) Daniel K. L. Chua	103
Towards the Third Way: Interdisciplinary Attitudes to the History and Practice of Listening (Report of Discussions) William Lockhart	109
Contributors	119