

The Oxford History of the United States

Edited by C. Vann Woodward

Over twenty years in the making, The Oxford History of the United States has been conceived under the general editorship of the pre-eminent American historian of this generation, and represents and summarizes the scholarship of his time. The series will consist of nine chronological volumes, each of which will encompass the social, political, economic, cultural, diplomatic, and military history of a particular period in a readable and coherent narrative framework. In addition, two topical volumes will be devoted exclusively to the history of the American economy and the history of American diplomacy. As with The Oxford History of England, each work has been commissioned from a leading scholar in his period or field, and each will stand as the basic one-volume history of its kind.

The first volume to be published is Volume II, The Glorious Cause: The American Revolution 1763–1789 by Robert Middlekauff. It is a compelling account of the American colonies' struggle for independence. Beginning with the 1763 Treaty of Paris which ended the Seven Years' War, Professor Middlekauff charts the growing conflict between England and America – the political and personal controversies within the halls of Parliament to establish a viable colonial policy, and the reactions of American leaders and populace – to the ultimate outbreak of military confrontation in 1775 and 1776. The author chronicles the growing constitutional movement within the separate colonies which led to the national constitutional convention in Philadelphia and portrays the drama of the convention itself along with its major figures. The promulgation of the Constitution and the election of George Washington as the first president of the newly-formed republic brings this volume to its close. Illustrated £15

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

- 1 All contributions and editorial correspondence should be sent to: The Editor, Journal of American Studies, School of English and American Studies, University of East Anglia, Norwich NR4 7TJ, England.
- 2 Articles should generally contain about 5,000 words. Longer or shorter articles, or articles in two or more parts, may be accepted by arrangement with the Editors.
- 3 Submission of an article is taken to imply that it has not previously been published and is not being considered for publication elsewhere.
- 4 Contributions should be clearly typed in double spacing (including footnotes), preferably on A4 paper, with a wide left-hand margin. Diagrams, maps and illustrations may be included.
- 5 Spelling may conform either to British or American usage, providing it is consistent throughout.
- 6 Footnotes should be used sparingly: in general, to give sources of direct quotations, references to main authorities on disputable questions, and evidence relied on for a new or unusual conclusion. They should be numbered consecutively, and may most conveniently be placed, in double spacing, at the end of the article.
- 7 For guidance on matters of style, contributors should refer either to the MLA Handbook (1977), or to the Journal of American Studies Style Notes, copies of which may be obtained from the Editors.
- 8 Contributors should keep one copy of the typescript for correcting proofs.
- 9 Notes intended for the Editors or Printer should be on a separate sheet.
- 10 First proofs may be read and corrected by contributors provided that they can give the Editor an address through which they can be reached without delay and can guarantee to return the corrected proofs to the Editor, by airmail where necessary, within three days of receiving them.
- 11 Corrections should be kept to an absolute minimum. They should be confined to errors of the typist or printer unless the Editor authorizes otherwise.
- 12 Contributors of articles and review essays receive 25 free offprints. Extra copies may be ordered according to a scale of charges.
- 13 Contributors need not be members of the British Association for American Studies. Unsolicited typescripts can only be returned to overseas contributors who send International Reply Coupons (not postage stamps).
- 14 Contributors of accepted articles will be asked to assign their copyright, on certain conditions, to Cambridge University Press, to help protect their material, particularly in the USA.
