

Announcement/Chronique

University of Kentucky
Annual Prize Essay Competition in:

European Philosophy from Kant to the Present

Topic: What, if anything, distinguishes transcendental philosophies or arguments from other types of philosophy or argument?

This question may be addressed historically, systematically, or through any combination of these two approaches. The winning essay will receive a prize of $1,000 and, upon recommendation of the selection committee, be published in Inquiry. The author of the winning essay will also be brought to the University of Kentucky in the Spring of 2004 to present it.

Essays will be judged by a process of blind review. Submissions should be appropriately formatted for such a process, with the author's name and other identifying information appearing only on a separate cover sheet. Essays should be double spaced, in English, and no more than 7,000 words in length. Past and present faculty and students at the University of Kentucky are ineligible to compete. Submissions should not have been previously published or submitted for publication.

The deadline for submissions is December 1, 2003. Essays should be submitted in typed (hard-copy) form to Ms. Katie Barrett, Department of Philosophy, University of Kentucky, Lexington, KY 40506-0027 USA. No electronic submissions please.