

SAY GOODBYE TO international law as we knew it.

To old ideas about environmental regulation, global financial transactions, and the traditional hierarchies of domestic and international courts.

SAY HELLO TO international law as we're getting to know it.

One which recognizes that there are fewer degrees of separation between issues once treated in isolation. Like foreign investment and human rights. Or labor relations in one country and capital markets on the other side of the globe.

AT THE FOREFRONT OF THIS PRACTICE IS COLUMBIA.

Through joint programs with the U.N., as well as the Columbia Business School and School of International and Public Affairs. On campus, you'll find endowed centers for Chinese, Japanese, and Korean legal studies. Elsewhere, you'll find double-degree programs with law schools in Paris, Frankfurt, and London. And everywhere we are, you'll see pioneering scholarship on everything from climate change law to international terrorism.

All of it developing just as fast as the world is changing. And that's pretty fast indeed.

The Human Right to Water Significance, Legal Status and Implications for Water Allocation Inga T Winkler

The United Nations General Assembly and the Human Rights Council recognised the human right to water in 2010. This formal recognition has put the issue high on the international agenda, but by itself leaves many questions unanswered. This book addresses this gap and clarifies the legal status and meaning of the right to water through a detailed analysis of its legal foundations, legal nature, normative content and corresponding State obligations.

Inga T Winkler is a Legal Adviser to the UN Special Rapporteur on the Human Right to Safe Drinking Water and Sanitation based at the German Institute for Human Rights.

Europe and Extraterritorial Asylum Maarten den Heijer

Increasingly, European and other Western states have sought to control the movement of refugees outside their borders. To do this, states have adopted a variety of measures - including carrier sanctions, interception of migrants at sea, posting of immigration officers in foreign countries and external processing of asylum-seekers. This book focuses on the legal implications of external mechanisms of migration control for the protection of refugees and irregular migrants. The book explores how refugee and human rights law has responded to the new measures adopted by states, and how states have sought cooperation with other actors in the context of migration control.

The book received 'The Max van der Stoep Human Rights Award 2011' (first prize category dissertations); and the 'Erasmianum Study Prize 2011'.

Maarten den Heijer is Assistant Professor in the department of Public International Law and European Law at the University of Amsterdam.

The Politics of International Criminal Justice

German Perspectives from Nuremberg to The Hague

Ronen Steinke

To anyone setting out to explore the entanglement of international criminal justice with the interests of States, Germany is a particularly curious case. Although a liberal democracy since 1949, its political position has altered radically in the last 60 years. Starting from a position of harsh scepticism in the years following the Nuremberg Trials, and opening up to the rationales of international criminal justice only slowly, Germany is today one of the most active supporters of the International Criminal Court. The climax of this is its campaigning to make the ICC independent of the UN Security Council. This book offers new insight into the debates leading up to such policy shifts. Drawing on government documents and interviews with policymakers, it enriches a broader debate on the politics of international criminal justice which has to date often been focused primarily on the United States.

Ronen Steinke is a lawyer and a political journalist with Süddeutsche Zeitung.

Interlocking Constitutions

Towards an Interordinal Theory of National, European and UN Law

Luis I Gordillo

The existence of interactions between different but overlapping legal systems has always presented challenges to black letter law. In this book Luis I Gordillo analyses the interordinal instabilities which arise at the European level, focusing on three main strands of case law and their implications: Solange, Bosphorus and Kadi. To solve the difficulties caused by this instability Gordillo proposes a form of soft constitutionalism, which he calls 'interordinal constitutionalism', as a means to bring order and stability to global legal governance.

Luis I Gordillo is an Associate Professor at the University of Deusto, Bilbao.

The Law Reports of the Special Court for Sierra Leone

Volume 1: Prosecutor v. Brima, Kamara and Kanu (The AFRC Case)

Edited by Charles C. Jalloh
and Simon M.
Meisenberg

- June 2012
- ISBN 978 90 04 18911 9
- List price
EUR 450.- / US$ 617.-

The Special Court for Sierra Leone was established through signature of a bilateral treaty between the United Nations and the Government of Sierra Leone in early 2002, making it the third modern ad hoc international criminal tribunal. The tribunal has tried various persons, including former Liberian President Charles Ghankay Taylor, for allegedly bearing “greatest responsibility” for serious violations of international humanitarian law committed during the latter half of the Sierra Leonean armed conflict. This volume, which consists of two books with a CD-ROM and is edited by two legal experts on the Sierra Leone court, presents, for the first time in a single place, a comprehensive collection of all the interlocutory decisions and final trial and appeals judgments issued by the court in the case Prosecutor v. Brima, Kamara and Kanu. It contains the full text of all substantive judicial decisions, including the majority, separate and concurring as well as dissenting opinions. It additionally provides relevant information for a better understanding of the case, such as the indictments, a list of admitted exhibits and a list of documents on the case file.

PROUD FOUNDER, COMMITTED LEADER

In 1993, Pace Law School founded the Willem C. Vis International Commercial Arbitration Moot, which draws more than 250 law school teams to compete in Vienna before some of the most eminent scholars and practitioners of private international law.

“Competing with the Vis team in Vienna was an incredible experience. Using various international rules and laws, including the UNCITRAL Model Law, Convention of International Sale of Goods (CISG), and New York Convention, I gained real-world experience simulating actual arbitrations against law students from more than 250 schools from around the world.”

Research Handbooks in International Law series

This highly original series offers a unique appraisal of the state-of-the-art of research and thinking in international law. Taking a thematic approach, each volume, edited by a prominent expert, covers a specific aspect of international law or examines the international legal dimension of a particular strand of the law.

Taking a genuinely international approach to the law, and addressing current and sometimes controversial legal issues, as well as affording a clear substantive analysis of the law, these handbooks are designed to inform as well as to contribute to current debates.

Equally useful as reference tools or introductions to specific topics, issues and debates, the handbooks will be used by academic researchers, post-graduate students, practising lawyers and lawyers in policy circles.

INTERNATIONAL LAW

"Sydney Law School is a powerhouse for critical legal thinking. It attracts academics of the highest calibre from the most reputed universities across the globe, and fosters an environment where academic enquiry and rigour is actively nurtured and encouraged. My study has enabled me to learn from experts in public international law, challenged my thinking and greatly supported my professional development."

WASHINGTON AND LEE UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF LAW TRANSNATIONAL LAW INSTITUTE

W&L's LL.M. in United States Law is a one-year program open to a small, highly selective group of foreign-trained lawyers and other graduates of non-U.S. law schools. The program leads to a Master of Law (LL.M.) in United States Law.

- All students receive training in U.S. legal research tools and techniques.
- All other course work for the LL.M. program is elective. Students take the same classes as those offered to those enrolled in the J.D. program, and they study those areas of law of greatest relevance and interest to them. The Washington and Lee curriculum offers a wealth of beginning and advanced courses in all major areas of study, including business and commercial law, taxation, public and private international law, environmental law, and criminal and civil litigation.
- For students with an interest in international law, comparative law, transnational law and trade law, W&L offers a number of great opportunities. Courses include theoretical research seminars, participation in academic journals (including the peer-reviewed German Law Journal), and experiential courses in a variety of countries including, recently, Cambodia, Liberia and Tanzania.

Interested students should consult our website for additional information at law.wlu.edu/admissions or contact us at LLMAdm@wlu.edu.

Geneva : study in the heart of Europe in a truly international environment

In addition to various international law courses at undergraduate and postgraduate level in French, the University of Geneva Law Faculty offers two Masters in advanced studies (MAS) in cooperation with the Geneva Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies taught in English. Students and professionals from around the world come to study in Geneva, the home of numerous international organizations, UN agencies, law firms active in international arbitration and the ICRC.

The Master in International Humanitarian Law and Human Rights is offered by the Geneva Academy of International Humanitarian Law and Human Rights. Students take in-depth courses on all areas of international law relating to armed conflicts including international criminal law and human rights. Website: www.adh-geneva.ch

The Geneva Master in International Dispute Settlement gives students the opportunity to study all aspects of dispute settlement in the international arena, across the divide of public and private, with an emphasis on today's most relevant fields such as commercial and investment arbitration, negotiation and WTO dispute settlement. Genocide. War crimes. Human trafficking. Wherever in the world they occur is where the USC International Human Rights Clinic wants to be.

The USC Gould School of Law's International Human Rights Clinic works on projects and cases that confront the most pressing human rights concerns of our day. Under the supervision of Clinic Director Professor Hannah Garry, students seek justice on behalf of victims, hold perpetrators of serious human rights abuses accountable and work towards progressive development of the law. Through this experience, students acquire knowledge and skills for effective international lawyering and human rights advocacy while supporting the critical work of human rights advocates and organizations worldwide.

The clinic has included casework before the United Nations International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda and the Extraordinary Chambers in the Courts of Cambodia. Clinic students have assisted international judges with legal research, drafting decisions and reviewing evidence. Also, clinic students have represented survivors of human trafficking with the Coalition to Abolish Slavery and Trafficking. Finally, the clinic organizes events publicizing human rights issues and has hosted speakers including International Criminal Court Prosecutor Luis Moreno Ocampo and former Ambassador-at-Large for War Crimes David Scheffer.

Series on Transitional Justice

Edited by Stephan Parmentier, Elmar Weitekamp and Jeremy Sarkin

Countries emerging from long periods of authoritarian rule must often confront a legacy of gross human rights abuses perpetrated over many years. During the past two decades, these age-old issues have been termed "problems of transitional justice", both by academics and policymakers around the world. Given the frequency with which these problems arise, as well as the complexity of the issues involved, it is striking that no book series has taken the issue of transitional justice as its point of focus. This new Series on Transitional Justice aims to fill this gap.

The Series on Transitional Justice offers a platform for high-quality research within the rapidly growing field of transitional justice. The series is inter-disciplinary in nature, drawing from disciplines such as law, political science, history, sociology, criminology, anthropology and psychology, as well as from various specialised fields of study such as human rights, victimology and peace studies.

INTERNATIONAL LAW: 100 WAYS IT SHAPES OUR LIVES

Many find international law abstract and static. Topics such as war and peace or relationships between countries are considered by some to be not so much questions of law, but of power and influence. Others question the existence of international law.

International Law: 100 Ways It Shapes Our Lives was conceived from the proposition that international law not only exists, but also penetrates more deeply and broadly into everyday life than is generally recognized. Some ways are of relatively recent vintage, while others are long-standing. 100 examples were identified by ASIL members, vetted by a smaller group of experts, and organized into seven chapters: 1) daily life; 2) leisure; 3) travel; 4) commerce 5) health and the environment; 6) personal liberty; 7) public safety and global security.

Join us in demonstrating how international law shapes our lives by

- Visiting 100 Ways at www.asil.org/100ways
- Using it in teaching and general civic education programs;
- Adding ways to the list; and
- Sharing your experiences using International Law: 100 Ways It Shapes Our Lives.

We hope that this creative and interactive project will help demonstrate the diversity and the centrality of international law to our lives today.

IN DAILY LIFE

- 1 Always knowing what date and time it is anywhere on the planet.
By universal recognition of the prime meridian and Greenwich Mean Time (via international agreement at the International Meridian Conference in 1884). The latter was updated to "universal time" in 1928, and subsequent technical agreements have refined the definition further.
- 2 Mailing a letter reliably and easily to anyone in the world.
By ensuring a truly universal postal network and recognizing that specified postal rates in one country would satisfy delivery requirements in all countries (the Constitution of the Universal Postal Union, 1964).
- 3 Driving cars with improved safety standards.
By adopting global safety standards for automobiles, notably the Agreement Concerning the Establishing of Global Technical Regulations for Wheeled Vehicles, Equipment, and Parts Which Can Be Fitted and/or Used on Wheeled Vehicles (1998).
- 4 Being able to call Arkansas, Missouri, or most of Montana home.
As the result of the bilateral treaty known as the Louisiana Purchase (1803).
- 5 Placing and receiving telephone calls worldwide.
By creating an international communication network and by reaching an international agreement preventing national claims to the geostationary orbit. See the 1865 Constitution of what is now called the International Telecommunications Union, the oldest intergovernmental organization, and the Treaty on Principles Governing the Activities of States in the Exploration and Use of Outer Space, Including the Moon and Other Celestial Bodies (UN Space Treaty, 1967).

- 6 Knowing that a second is the same length of time everywhere in the world.
By setting internationally recognized standards, particularly the Decision of the 13th General Conference on Weights and Measures (1967), under the auspices of the International Office of Weights and Measures (est. 1875).
- 7 Using the same software on computers worldwide.
By providing rights of distribution, copyright, and rental to authors of computer programs via the World Intellectual Property Organization Copyright Treaty (1996).
- 8 Getting an up-to-date weather forecast about your destination before you travel.
By benefiting from international rules for the collection and dissemination of worldwide weather data, as provided for by the Convention of the World Meteorological Organization (1947) and the International Telecommunication Convention (1932).
- 9 Watching news and events from around the world on television.
As a result of the international convention providing equal access to the international satellite communications network, as stated in Resolution 1721 (XVI) of the General Assembly of the United Nations (1961).
- 10 Listening to a BBC program on your radio.
By following regulations, implemented by the International Telecommunication Union, that provide for shared use of the radio spectrum and assign positions for communication satellites, building from the International Telegraph Convention (1865).
