

Force of infection of Helicobacter pylori in Mexico: evidence from a national survey using a hierarchical Bayesian model – CORRIGENDUM

Corrigendum

Cite this article: Alarid-Escudero F, Enns EA, MacLehose RF, Parsonnet J, Torres J, Kuntz KM (2018). Force of infection of Helicobacter pylori in Mexico: evidence from a national survey using a hierarchical Bayesian model – CORRIGENDUM. Epidemiology and Infection 146, 1070. <https://doi.org/10.1017/S0950268818001371>

Key words:

Bayesian hierarchical models; catalytic epidemic models; force of infection; Helicobacter pylori; Mexico; corrigendum

F. Alarid-Escudero, E. A. Enns, R. F. MacLehose, J. Parsonnet, J. Torres and K. M. Kuntz

doi:10.1017/S0950268818000857 Published online by Cambridge University Press, 16 April 2018

There was an error made in one of the author's names of the above paper (Alarid-Escudero et al 2018). The author's name should have appeared as 'J. Torres'. The original article has been corrected and a footnote included.

Reference

Alarid-Escudero F et al. (2018). Force of infection of Helicobacter pylori in Mexico: Evidence from a national survey using a hierarchical Bayesian model. Epidemiology and Infection, 1–9. doi:10.1017/S0950268818000857