The Traditional History of the Jie of Uganda

J. E. Lamphear

This book is the first attempt to reconstruct the pre-colonial history of the Jie of Uganda, and the first detailed historical study of any of the Central Paralinotic-speaking peoples of Karamoja District, Uganda, neighbouring areas of north-west Kenya, and the southern Sudan. The central theme is the development of the Jie political community from c. A.D. 1720 to 1915. £9.75

Chiefs and Clerics

Abdul Bokar Kan and the History of Futa Toro, 1853–1891

David Robinson

Set in Futa Toro, or the middle valley of the Senegal River, Chiefs and Clerics begins with the struggle for hegemony between the French under Faidherbe and the Tokolor reformer, al-hajj Umar Tal. The story continues with the political career of Abdul Bokar Kan, a chief without clerical credentials who restored much of the autonomy and prosperity of the area between 1860 and 1891, when the French finally conquered his kingdom. Illustrated £7.50

Kings and Kinsmen

Early Mbundu States in Angola

Joseph C. Miller

How small-scale and decentralized African political institutions developed into the large kingdoms so prominent in early African history has puzzled anthropologists and historians alike. This book approaches the question from a historical perspective, and shows that it was purely local conditions rather than external stimuli that moved kinsmen towards political centralization. £9.50

Zulu Zion

and some Swazi Zionists

Bengt Sundkler

Bengt Sundkler's Bantu Prophets in South Africa was a pioneering work in the life and ideology of Independent African Churches. In this new study he interprets them from a different point of view, and has concentrated on the history and the leading personalities of some of the churches, including that of the famous Isaiah Shembe. £8

Critical Choices for Americans

Critical Choices for Americans, a fourteen-volume work on urgent problems that face the United States and the world at the beginning of America's third century, will appear through 1976 and into 1977 under the imprint of Lexington Books.

A wide range of subjects is covered including energy, the environment, and economics; population, food, and land use; raw materials; criminal justice and the law; education; and foreign relations and national defense. A major portion of the work concerns ideas about America, extensive analyses of different regions of the world, and the quality of life of communities and individuals.

"The Commission on Critical Choices for Americans, brought together by Nelson A. Rockefeller in 1973, commissioned 128 of the best minds in the world to highlight alternatives facing America. Their subjects include energy, the environment, population, food, land use, criminal justice, education, defense, and extensive analyses of regions of the world."

About the series in general, TIME Magazine said:
"NEW STARTS FOR AMERICA'S THIRD CENTURY . . . What emerges from these essays is the sense that in nearly every important field, ideas that dominated for half a century or more are giving way. New notions are being pursued and older ideas, discarded earlier in the 20th century, are being re-examined . . . Different though the various views of human nature may be, the very use of the term implies that there is something permanent and irreducible in man and that his resistance to outside manipulation is a kind of triumph."

The amazing story of Kimbangu

Simon Kimbangu was an unassuming Christian convert who preached and healed the sick in the Belgian Congo . . . until he was arrested and consigned to prison for the last 30 years of his life. His fame, however, was already established among his followers and now the fully recognized Kimbanguist Church has nearly four million adherents.

Kimbangu

An African Prophet
By Marie-Louise Martin

Here, with the aid of previously unconsulted Kimbanguist documents, Protestant mission sources and secret colonial documents, the full story of Kimbangu and his church is told. It is a fascinating and authoritative account that will appeal to all who are interested in the development of the Christian church in the Third World.

THE JOURNAL OF MODERN AFRICAN STUDIES

The Journal offers a quarterly survey of politics, economics, and related topics in contemporary Africa.

The main emphasis is upon the peoples and policies, the problems and progress of this dynamic and disparate continent; upon the many societies that are evolving rather than the essential characteristics of the old; upon the present, not on the more distant past. The best current work is sought from specialists in different academic disciplines, whose contributions can illuminate and cross-fertilise one another.

The Journal seeks to promote a deeper understanding of what is happening in Africa today. It is intended for both the political scientist and the practical politician, the administrator and the advocate, the economist and the educator, the banker and the businessman, the diplomat and the technocrat, the civil servant and the nationalist leader. All have something to contribute to these pages and, it is hoped, much to learn from them.

Editorial policy avoids commitment to any political viewpoint or ideology, whether imperialism, pan-Africanism, capitalism, socialism, or nationalism. Such concepts, however, have relevance to the modern African situation, and merit serious discussion, often from several different points of view, in order that controversial issues may be fairly examined.
