

Notes on Contributors

Stephen R. L. Clark

Professor of Philosophy, University of Liverpool. His most recent book is God's World and the Great Awakening, which completes his trilogy Limits and Renewals. His earlier contributions to Philosophy include 'Slaves and Citizens' (January 1985).

R. A. Sharpe

Professor of Philosophy, St David's University College, Lampeter. Author of Contemporary Aesthetics and Making the Human Mind.

Anthony Skillen

Lecturer in Philosophy, University of Kent at Canterbury. His earlier contributions to Philosophy include 'Rousseau and the Fall of Social Man' (January 1985).

Gordon Graham

Reader in Philosophy, University of St Andrews. Author of Contemporary Social Philosophy and The Idea of Christian Charity.

John Haldane

Reader in Philosophy, University of St Andrews. His article 'Chester-ton's Philosophy of Education' was published in Philosophy in January 1990.

Olli Lagerspetz

Graduate Student, Åbo Akademi University, Åbo (Turku) Finland.

David Stove

Formerly Professor of Philosophy, University of Sydney. His latest book The Plato Cult and Other Philosophical Follies was reviewed in Book-notes in July 1991.

K. W. Rankin

Emeritus Professor of Philosophy, University of Victoria, B.C., Canada. Author of Choice and Chance: A Libertarian Analysis and The Recovery of the Soul: An Aristotelian Essay on Self-Fulfilment. Contributor to Mind, Philosophical Quarterly, Canadian Journal of Philosophy and Australian Journal of Philosophy. His article 'McTaggart's Paradox: Two Parodies' was published in Philosophy in July 1981.

Stephen Makin

Lecturer in Philosophy, University of Sheffield. His article 'The Ontological Argument' was published in Philosophy in January 1988.

L. Nathan Oaklander

Professor of Philosophy, University of Michigan-Flint. Author of Temporal Relations and Temporal Becoming.