THE FRENCH COMMUNISTS

Profile of a People

Annie Kriegel

Translated by Elaine P. Halperin

Foreword by Aristide R. Zolberg

Examines the societal party structure of the Communist party in France. Professor Kriegel sees the Communist party as a series of concentric circles. In studying each of the circles—their members, activities, and goals—she focuses on the way of life offered by the party and the French Communists' impressive ability to adapt to change.

THE SUN DANCE RELIGION

Power for the Powerless

Joseph G. Jorgensen

A political and economic analysis of how and why the Sun dance religion came to be. Professor Jorgensen traces the historic development of the Sun dance by the Rocky Mountain area Utes and Shoshones as a response to Indian deprivation at the hands of Whites. The author suggests that the Indians have created this ceremony to obtain feelings of power and redemption amid oppression.

Patrimonialism and Political Change in the Congo

Jean-Claude Willame. This work sharply challenges the usual view of Congolese politics as an example of anarchy and chaos. Using Max Weber's theory of patrimonialism, the author examines the phases undergone in the Congo since it won independence in 1960, and assesses the prospects for further change in the Congolese political system. $8.50

Biennial Review of Anthropology 1971

Edited by Bernard J. Siegel. This is the seventh volume of a series in which leading anthropologists summarize and appraise recent papers and monographs in various fields of research. Topics include cross-cultural psychology, anthropology of religion, physical anthropology, social organization, and anthropological linguistics. $12.95

Women and the Family in Rural Taiwan

Margery Wolf. This study explores the role and function of women in a male-dominated social structure. The author examines the Taiwanese woman's life cycle—infancy, childhood, marriage, motherhood, old age—and presents information on such topics as child training, marriage negotiations, women's groups, and the uterine family. Illus. $8.50

Tibetan Civilization

R. A. Stein. The work of France's most eminent Tibetanist, this classic has been revised and updated for its first English edition. The author considers Tibetan geography and people, Tibetan history from the 7th century A.D. to the present, the main elements of Tibetan society, as well as religion, art, and literature. Illustrated. $10.00

THE SOCIETY FOR THE PSYCHOLOGICAL STUDY OF SOCIAL ISSUES

(a division of the American Psychological Association)

Comparative Studies in Society and History is a forum for presentation and discussion of new research into problems of change and stability that recur in human societies through time or in the contemporary world. It sets up a working alliance between specialists in all branches of the social sciences and humanities. Debate and review articles bring the general reader in touch with current findings and issues.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

Contributions may be descriptive, analytical or theoretical. Any article not in itself comparative may be accepted if it lends itself to comment that will place it in comparative perspective. Correspondence with the editors prior to the submission of articles will help to enable them to obtain such comment or a companion study. Emphasis in comparative studies may be either on similarities or, if these are significant enough and call for some recasting of generalisations, on differences. All contributions and editorial correspondence should be sent to the Editors, Comparative Studies in Society and History, Department of History, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48104.

Two copies of each contribution, preferably accompanied by a stamped, addressed envelope, should be submitted. Both text and footnotes should be clearly typed with double spacing and wide margins; footnotes should appear on separate pages at the end of the article. Illustrations may be included by arrangement with the editors.

Contributors will receive 50 offprints bound in the journal covers. Any additional offprints must be ordered on receipt of the first proof.
