CALL for EDITOR-IN-CHIEF International Psychogeriatrics

Application Deadline: 15 May 2009

Applicants are sought for the position of Editor-in-Chief of International Psychogeriatrics, the prestigious academic journal (2007 impact factor – 2.207) owned by the International Psychogeriatric Association (IPA) and currently published six times per year by Cambridge University Press (CUP). The appointment will be for four years (January 2011 to January 2015) and the successful applicant will be eligible for re-appointment for a second four-year term (2015–2019) as determined by the IPA Board of Directors. Applicants are sought now, so that the successful candidate can be appointed as Editor-in-Chief elect at IPA's September 2009 Board of Directors (BOD) meeting. The intent is to ensure a smooth transition and enable the editor-elect to work closely with the current editor, Professor David Ames, to master the duties prior to assuming the position.

Responsibilities of the editor-in-chief include the arrangement of peer review for submitted articles, deciding which reviewed articles can be published, commissioning of editorials, book reviews, debates and other articles from time to time, timely communication with authors and other correspondents and reporting regularly to IPA's Executive Committee and Board of Directors on the status, direction and development of the journal. To assist himself or herself in the editorial duties, the editor will appoint at least two deputy editors, up to 40 associate editors, a book review editor and a statistical consultant to the journal's editorial panel and will be supported on that panel by eight former editors of the journal. In consultation with these colleagues the editor will be expected to set goals and policy directions for the journal and to improve and enhance its relevance, reputation and importance within the academic discipline of psychogeriatrics/old age psychiatry. The position is unpaid, but expenses for occasional essential travel may be available. The position will be supported by an editorial assistant whose exact hours and location of work will be determined in consultation with CUP and IPA. During the course of the initial four-year appointment, it is expected that the journal will increase its publication frequency to 12 issues annually. In addition, an average of one to two supplements to the Journal are published each year. The time commitment is approximately 40–60 hours per issue.

The successful applicant will have considerable experience in the academic discipline of psychogeriatrics/old age psychiatry, will have published widely in academic journals and will have some experience of editing or assisting with the editing of an academic journal (e.g. at the level of at least associate editor) or newsletter. The successful applicant will be, or will be willing to become, a member of IPA.

A decision on the appointment of a suitable applicant will be made by an IPA BOD subcommittee comprising David Ames (Editor-in-Chief), Michael Davidson (Chair IPA Publications Committee), Masatoshi Takeda (IPA President-Elect), and Susan Oster (IPA Executive Director and Executive Editor of International Psychogeriatrics) and this recommendation will require confirmation by the full IPA Board of Directors.

All interested candidates should apply electronically by submitting the following by 15 May 2009 to journal@ipa-online.org:

- Short version of Curriculum Vitae (CV) – no longer than two double-spaced typed pages in length
- Statement of Interest and Eligibility – no longer than two double-spaced typed pages in length
- 3 letters of reference – letters should be sent directly by the referee to the IPA Secretariat (Ms Susan Oster, IPA Executive Director and International Psychogeriatrics Executive Editor, soster@ipa-online.org; see inside back journal cover for full contact details); at least one letter of reference should be from a current member of the IPA Board of Directors

Application information and job description are provided on the IPA website <http://www.ipa-online.org>. The deadline for application is 15 May 2009. It is anticipated that telephone interviews will take place in June 2009 and that a decision on the recommendation of an appointee to the post will be reached by 31 July. Enquiries about the responsibilities of the position may be addressed to the current editor, David Ames (ipaj-ed@unimelb.edu.au), and/or to the IPA Executive Director, Susan Oster (soster@ipa-online.org), and will be treated in the strictest of confidence.

SPECIAL ISSUE OF INTERNATIONAL PSYCHOGERIATRICS – CALL FOR PAPERS

The peer-reviewed journal International Psychogeriatrics (IF 2.207) plans a regular issue focusing on the subject of clinical training of a mental health workforce to work with older adults. Manuscripts relating to theory, empirical studies, case studies, educational initiatives and strategies, and policy and practice implications of clinical training are welcome.

Manuscripts offering a multidisciplinary perspective to such training are particularly sought. The contents will be peer reviewed and at this stage it is planned that they will all appear in the February 2010 issue of the journal. We invite you to submit a paper for this exciting issue. Copies of the IP instructions for contributors can be found at www.journals.cambridge.org/jid_IPG. All papers submitted will need to be peer reviewed before their appearance in the special issue is confirmed. In order to meet peer-review and publishing deadlines we would like to have your contribution by 30 June 2009. Contributors may be asked to assist with peer review on this issue.

Affiliate to IPA

The International Psychogeriatric Association (IPA) invites national and regional organizations in the field of Psychogeriatrics to apply for affiliation.

We believe much can be accomplished when organizations work together to achieve shared goals. Together we can find ways to support more effective research efforts, better educational and informational activities, and enlightened public policy in all nations.

Affiliate Organizations to IPA are those organizations that have goals addressing mental health and aging issues. Affiliate organizations can be from any of the various disciplines associated with IPA. IPA also welcomes multiple organizations from any country. As an IPA affiliate, your organization will play an important role in maintaining this international voice in our field.

Below we acknowledge these outstanding organizations as IPA Affiliates and our joint commitment to the common goal of better mental health for older people.

2009 IPA Junior Research Awards

Submissions are due 27 April 2009

Presented every two years at the IPA Congress, the Junior Research Awards in Psychogeriatrics were established in 1989 to recognize the best original, previously unpublished research in the field of Psychogeriatrics by junior researchers and encourage them to continue their groundbreaking work and participate in the field and IPA. Past award recipients include many scientists who have demonstrated outstanding leadership in the field.

The recipients will present their award-winning research:

- Plenary session at the IPA 2009 Congress, 1-5 September 2009 in Montréal, Canada
- Papers will be published in International Psychogeriatrics, IPA's Journal

In addition, each award recipient will receive:

- Complimentary 2009 IPA Congress registration
- US $1,500 toward travel and accommodations for the Congress
- Complimentary one-year membership in IPA

Visit IPA's website, <http://www.ipa-online.org>, for more information.

Submissions are due 27 April 2009

Encourage a Colleague to Join

IPA is the leading multidisciplinary, international organization dedicated to the advancement of geriatric mental health knowledge.

Benefits of IPA membership include:

- an opportunity to interact with colleagues around the world who share an interest in advancing research, education, and theory about mental health in the elderly;
- education and meetings reflecting the many disciplines in Psychogeriatrics and the collective expertise of the world; special “members only” rates for all IPA meetings and activities;
- a subscription to International Psychogeriatrics, IPA’s bi-monthly, peer-reviewed journal, plus all special-focus supplements;
- the IPA Bulletin, an informative newsletter, published quarterly;
- IPA Online – the IPA website – including member area with special features for members including access to fellow members, and the IPA Learning Portal;
- the growth of Psychogeriatrics around the world, including contributing to the Sponsored Member Program to help associations in developing countries pass knowledge to their members; and
- an IPA membership certificate.

IPA’s membership rates have been adjusted to accommodate the needs of a wide variety of colleagues worldwide. To find out what the membership rates are for your country, please visit www.ipa-online.org.
