'On Insanity and the Criminal Responsibility of the Insane.' By Thomas More Madden, M.R.I.A., Licentiate of the King and Queen's College of Physicians in Ireland. (Read before the Medical Society of the College of Physicians in Ireland.)—Dublin: John Falconer. 1866. (Pamphlet.)

'Casuistry, Moral Philosophy, and Moral Theology. An Inaugural Lecture, delivered in the Senate House, Cambridge, on Tuesday, December 4th, 1866.' By F. D. Maurice, M.A., Knightbridge Professor to the University of Cambridge, and Incumbent of St. Peter's, Vere Street. London: Macmillan and Co. 1866.

We congratulate the University of Cambridge on the accession of a man of genius to the ranks of her teachers, and of having found so brilliant a philosopher to succeed to the chair once held by Dr. Whewell. The University has, moreover, asserted in this election her old predilections towards religious toleration. Forced to leave King's College, London, under an imputation of teaching heresy, while professing his faith that, deep as are the depths of hell, the power of Christ is greater, and His love deeper, Professor Maurice may well console himself for the slight of past years in the unanimous welcome with which the University of Cambridge greeted his first appearance as Knightbridge Professor.

'Obituary Notice of Dr. Conolly.' By Sir James Clark, Bart., M.D. (Pamphlet.) Read at the Ethnological Society, June 12th, 1866.

The Honorary Secretary has received the following letter:—

VIENNA, 2.9, 1866.

SIR,—I present you my respects and sincerest thanks for the honour of being created an Honorary Member of your celebrated Medico-Psychological Association.

Feeling myself much flattered and honoured by that election, I shall always do my best endeavours to avail myself of it.

At the same time, I beg leave to present to the Association my Compendium, 'Lehrbuch der psychischen Krankheiten.'

I am, Sir, with much respect,

Your obedient servant,

MAX LEIDESDORF,

Professor at the University of Vienna.

To Dr. Tuke, Hon. Sec.
Medico-Psychological Association.
