APSA has not released a biographical directory of members since 1988. The Centennial Biographical Directory of Members, scheduled for publication winter 2000-2001, will include the information you've come to expect in every APSA Directory of Members. But this special directory will also list members' publications, professional honors, professional and administrative positions, and, for the first time in any APSA directory, personal URLs.

The Centennial Biographical Directory of Members will be available in a fully searchable CD-ROM version, the first CD-ROM version of any APSA directory.

order your copy today

APSA members can place pre-publication orders for both the paper and CD-ROM editions. The pre-publication price for each is $35, which is a 30% discount off the list member price of $50. The set is available for $45 pre-publication, which is also a 30% discount off the list member price of $65. The paper edition only is available to non-members for purchase after publication for $95. Over 13,500 members will be listed! Order your copy today!

The Promise of the City

Space, Identity, and Politics in Contemporary Social Thought

Kian Tajbakhsh

"An outstanding contribution to urban scholarship. . . . [Tajbakhsh] moves us beyond essentialist views of cities as simple arenas of class struggle to a more complex and nuanced view of cities as spaces for encounters with difference and otherness."

—Michael Peter Smith,
author of City, State, and Market

$45.00 hardcover, $17.95 paperback

The Deadly Ethnic Riot

Donald L. Horowitz

Horowitz's comprehensive consideration of the structure and dynamics of ethnic violence is the first full-scale, comparative study of what the author terms the deadly ethnic riot. With its deep and thorough scholarship, incisive analysis, and profound insights, The Deadly Ethnic Riot will become the definitive work on its subject.

A Party System Perspective on Democratic Regulatory Choice, 1884–1936

Scott C. James

"James resolves a great paradox in American state development, explaining why a rabidly anti-state party chose to use its moments in power to help build the state. His analysis of strategic imperatives facing the Democrats in the presidential elections of the industrial era opens onto a synthetic reinterpretation of considerable range and power."

Public Attitudes toward Immigration in the United States, France, and Germany

Joel S. Fetzer

Public Attitudes Toward Immigration in the United States, France, and Germany explores the causes of public opposition to immigration and support for anti-immigrant political movements in the three industrialized Western countries. Combining sophisticated modeling of recent public-opinion data with analysis of the past 110 years of these nations' immigration history, the book evaluates the effects of cultural marginality, economic self-interest, and contact with immigrants. Though analysis partly confirms each of these three explanations, the author concludes that being a cultural outsider usually drives immigration-related attitudes more than economics or contact do.

Democracy and Development

Political Institutions and Well-Being in the World, 1950–1990

Adam Przeworski, Michael E. Alvarez, Jose Antonio Cheibub, and Fernando Limongi

Is economic development conducive to political democracy? Does democracy foster or hinder material welfare? These two questions are examined by looking at the experiences of 135 countries between 1950 and 1990. Descriptive information, statistical analyses, and historical narratives are interwoven to gain an understanding of the dynamic of political regimes and their impact on economic development. The often surprising findings dispel any notion of a tradeoff between democracy and development. Economic development does not generate democracies, but democracies are much more likely to survive in wealthy societies.

Rethinking Comparative Cultural Sociology

Repertoires of Evaluation in France and the United States

Michèle Lamont and
Laurent Thévenot, Editors

This book provides a powerful new theoretical framework for understanding cross-national cultural differences. Researchers from France and America present eight comparative case studies to demonstrate how the people of these two different cultures mobilize national repertoires of evaluation to make judgments about politics, economics, morals and aesthetics. This approach goes beyond essentialist models of national character to compare varying attitudes on topics ranging from racism and sexual harassment to identity politics, publishing, journalism, the arts and the environment.

The Politics of Pension Reform

Institutions and Policy Change in Western Europe

Giuliano Bonoli

European pension systems are increasingly under pressure. In this book Giuliano Bonoli examines policymakers' efforts to cope, caught between public support for existing pension schemes and the expected inability to sustain current arrangements in the context of an aging population. This book compares and assesses the process of pension policy-making in the UK, France and Switzerland, examining the factors that influence pension reform. The book looks at new pension legislation, demographic change, and pension financing, and will be of interest to policymakers as well as students of the welfare state.

States, Ideologies, and Social Revolutions

A Comparative Analysis of Iran, Nicaragua, and the Philippines

Misagh Parsa

Between 1979 and 1986 Iran, Nicaragua, and the Philippines underwent dramatic political and social revolutions. This book examines the conditions and processes that gave rise to revolutions and their outcomes, through an in-depth analysis of economic and political developments in these countries. The author also analyzes the impact of the collective actions and ideologies of the major social groups involved—students, clergy, workers, and capitalists. His book provides a valuable new framework within which to understand the causes of revolutions, their mechanics and development, and their outcomes.

The Interregnum: Controversies in World Politics 1989–1999

Michael Cox, Ken Booth, and Timothy Dunne, Editors

We are living in an era which seemingly defies description: in social and political theory, our age is frequently referred to as "postmodern;" in international relations, we remain in the "post-Cold War" age. The age is only characterized by what it is not. This collection of critical reflections, written by leading scholars in the field, will shed light on the meanings of world politics in what we are calling The Interregnum.

Democracy and the Media

A Comparative Perspective

Richard Gunther and Anthony Mughan, Editors

This book presents a unique perspective on the relationship between politics and the media in different kinds of political regimes in Europe, North America and Asia. These essays show that media effects on politics are the product of interactions among media technologies, the structure of the media market, the legal and regulatory framework, the nature of basic political institutions, and the characteristics of individual citizens. The authors' conclusions challenge conventional wisdom concerning the political roles and effects of the mass media on regime support and change, on the political behavior of citizens, and on the quality of democracy.

Legislative Institutions and Ideology in Chile

John B. Londregan

"...poses a powerful question: to what extent does a quasi-democratic constitution crafted by a military government constrain a liberal electorate from enacting laws consistent with their preferences? In answering this question, Londregan combines state-of-the-art methodology with a deep understanding of the Chilean case. The scintillating analysis of legislative politics in the final chapter is proof positive that high-tech statistical methods are a tool, not a barrier, to compelling narrative. I recommend this book to all comparativists."

Factionalism in Chinese Communist Politics

Jing Huang

Factionalism is widely understood to be a distinguishing characteristic of Chinese politics. In this book, Jing Huang examines the role of factionalism in leadership relations and policy making. His detailed knowledge of intra-Party politics offers a new understanding of still-disputed struggles behind the high walls of leadership in Zhongnanhai. Critiquing the predominant theories on leadership and decisionmaking, he explains that it is not power struggles that give rise to factionalism, but rather the existence of "factionalism that turns power into an overriding goal in CCP politics."

Crafting Law on the Supreme Court

The Collegial Game

Forrest Maltzman, James F. Spriggs II, and Paul J. Wahlbeck

"Crafting Law on the Supreme Court is a first-rate examination of what happens in the crucial stages after the justices reach a decision on the merits. By putting hypotheses about strategic interdependence through the rigors of (appropriately) sophisticated econometric tests, we learn much that is new about bargaining and accommodation over the Court's opinion."

Majority Rule or Minority Will

Adherence to Precedence on the US Supreme Court

Harold J. Spaeth and Jeffrey A. Segal

"This book by two distinguished political scientists makes a bold claim: Supreme Court justices rarely adhere to precedent, and when they do, it is usually in cases of no great importance. The authors write crystal-clear prose and sustain it with copious and careful research... This landmark book should be read by all serious students of the judicial process."

Politics & Democracy New from Chicago

Democracy in America

Alexis de Tocqueville

Edited, translated, and with an Introduction by Harvey C. Mansfield and Delba Winthrop

This new translation—the first in decades—is a spectacular achievement, capturing the elegance, subtlety, and profundity of Tocqueville's original. Also included is a superb and substantial introduction placing the work and its author in the broader context of the traditions of political philosophy and statesmanship. Together in one volume, the new translation, the introduction, and the translators' annotations of references unfamiliar to the modern reader combine to offer the most readable and faithful version of Tocqueville's masterpiece.

Five Decades of Constitutionalism in Japanese Society

Edited by Yoichi Higuchi

Law and political science scholars examine the ways in which Japan's second postwar Constitution (1947) changed Japanese society. The contributors analyze the impact of constitutional principles and examine problems that still remain: local autonomy, full equality for women, and the status of non-Japanese nationals, and pressure groups.

The Transformation of American Air Power

BENJAMIN S. LAMBETH

Since Operation Desert Storm, the role of American air power in future wars has become a topic of often heated public debate. Benjamin Lambeth explores the extent to which the United States can now rely on air-delivered precision weapons in lieu of ground forces to achieve strategic objectives and minimize casualties. Beginning with the U.S. experience in Southeast Asia, Lambeth reviews the recent history of American air power, including its role in the Gulf War, Bosnia, Kosovo, and Serbia. He examines improvements in areas ranging from hardware development to aircrew skills and organizational adaptability. CORNELL STUDIES IN SECURITY AFFAIRS / A RAND RESEARCH STUDY. 12 photos. $29.95

A Fistful of Rubles

The Rise and Fall of the Russian Banking System

JULIET JOHNSON

After the breakup of the USSR, it briefly appeared as though Russia's emerging commercial banks might act as engines of growth for a new capitalist economy. However, Russia's financial system collapsed in 1998. Drawing on interviews with Russian bankers, policymakers, and entrepreneurs, Johnson traces the evolution of the banking system from 1987 through the aftermath of the 1998 crash. She describes how dysfunctional institutional procedures along with misguided, Western-inspired liberalization policies, led to the creation of parasitic banks for which success depended on political connections rather than on investment strategies. 2 maps, 23 tables. $29.95

Women of Okinawa

Nine Voices from a Garrison Island

RUTH ANN KEYSO

"Through the voices of nine women, Ruth Ann Keyso brings needed attention to the experiences of Okinawans under the American Occupation and in relation to the Japanese state. These fascinating accounts and memories of women from different generations show the variety and complexity of Okinawan women's lives and views under a regime that deprives their community of political sovereignty and equality."—Representative Patsy Mink, Second District, Hawaii. 22 photos. $39.95 cloth, $16.95 paper

Stay Alive, My Son

PIN YATHAY

First published in the United States in 1988, this highly acclaimed autobiography has an updated preface and epilogue by Pin Yathay. In a new foreword, David Chandler, a world-renowned historian of Cambodia, discusses the continuing power and urgency of Pin Yathay's message.

"[In 1975], the Republic of Cambodia was torn asunder by the 'liberating' forces of Pol Pot. Pin Yathay . . . was a witness to the tragedy. . . . His entire family and unnumbered friends were annihilated. . . . A heart-rending account of the disintegration of an entire social system, caused by the paranoid policies of Khmer Rouge cadres."—Christian Science Monitor. 12 photos, 1 map, 1 line drawing. $16.95

Age of Contradiction

American Thought and Culture in the 1960s

HOWARD BRICK

"What Brick has done is to remind us of just how important ideas were in the 1960s and, equally important, to illustrate how these various threads of 1960s life—the political, the social, and the intellectual—all wound in and out of one another. . . . As a result, we cannot look back on the decade the same way ever again."—The Journal of American History. 15 Photos. $16.95

From Colonials to Provincials

American Thought and Culture 1680–1760

NED C. LANDSMAN

"This volume provides a succinct, analytical, well-conceived, and nicely written account of the development of colonial North American thought and culture from 1680 to the eve of the American Revolution. Not an anachronistic search for the origins of later American cultural forms, it situates the subject firmly within a transatlantic context."—The Journal of American History. $16.95

Anatomy of Mistrust

U.S.-Soviet Relations during the Cold War

DEBORAH WELCH LARSON

"Provides a sophisticated basis for understanding how the psychology, ideology, and political domestic situation of decision makers affects their perception of opponents' motives and offers. Issues are: what causes mistrust, in what ways is trust established, how verification measures vary with levels of trust. . . . [This book] is an excellent, original, and substantially useful book for readers and instructors seeking an intelligent conceptual overview of crucial Cold War episodes."—The Journal of American History. CORNELL STUDIES IN SECURITY AFFAIRS. $18.95

Liberal Peace, Liberal War

American Politics and International Security

JOHN M. OWEN

A 1998 Choice Outstanding Academic Book

"Offers a rigorous exploration of the possible reasons why liberal states, for most of the time anyway, do not fight each other; it considers carefully how policy-makers come to recognize particular foreign states as liberal; and it backs all this up with an examination of ten war-threatening crises involving the U.S. between 1790 and 1900. . . . This book will help take the idea of democratic peace out of the land of political and academic hype, and into the realm of serious study."—The Times Literary Supplement. ## Cultural Politics in Greater Romania

Regionalism, Nation Building, and Ethnic Struggle, 1918–1930

IRINA LIVEZEANU

Winner of the 1995 Heldt Prize given by the Association for Women in Slavic Studies

A 1995 Choice Outstanding Academic Book

"Irina Livezeanu has effectively demonstrated that there is need to re-think the interwar period in Romanian history and to free it from the terrible obfuscations perpetrated by scholarly minions of the Ceauseacu regime. She also counters the romanticized picture of interwar Romania painted by some dissident intellectuals suffering from Communist oppression. [A] major contribution to the recent history of Romania, as well as to the historical literature on East European nationalism and nation building."—István Deák, Columbia University. 13 photos, 6 maps, 14 tables. $19.95

The American Statehouse Interpreting Democracy's Temples

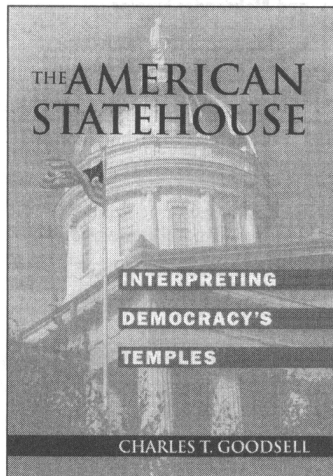

Charles T. Goodsell

"This landmark book is a pioneering contribution towards understanding the interaction between politics and space in the statehouse."—James M. Mayo, author of The American Country Club: Its Origins and Evolution

"Charles Goodsell remains one of the most trustworthy guides to the complex relationship between architecture and politics. His new book is not only a fine study of a particular building type; it is a study that—through the questions it asks—invites introspection about the meaning of other building types, as well."—Lawrence J. Vale, author of Architecture, Power, and National Identity

"Full of fascinating insights and also highly readable."—Amos Rapoport, author of The Meaning of the Built Environment

Groups and Group Rights

Edited by Christine Sistare, Larry May, and Leslie Francis

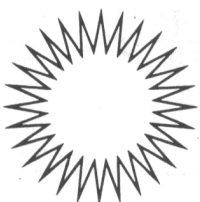

"Comprehensive and current, this volume will be of great interest to philosophers, as well as to political scientists, legal theorists, graduate students, and advanced undergraduates."

—David Ingram, author of Group Rights and Habermas and the Dialectic of Reason

"Groups and group rights are lively topics these days, and this readable volume does a nice job of covering them. One of its strengths is that it forms a coherent whole, as does each of its three sections. The introductory essays are extremely helpful in explicating that coherence, and most of them are significant pieces in their own right."—Richard T. ## GLOBAL JUSTICE

Defending Cosmopolitanism

CHARLES JONES

What obligations do wealthy people have to ensure that the world's poor achieve a quality of life that is recognizably human? This is the fundamental question of international distributive justice and one that has only been seriously debated in the last 25 years. This book analyzes the relative merits of the core moral perspectives framing the debates, including the universalist, nationalist, patriotist and relativist.

POLITICAL REFLECTIONS

New books from Texas A&M

CONGRESSIONAL ABDICATION ON WAR AND SPENDING

LOUIS FISHER

The balance of powers among the branches of government is the defining structure of American democracy. The Founders assumed each branch would jealously guard its own prerogatives to prevent tyrannical power. In recent years, however, Congress has progressively abdicated its role in two crucial areas: war powers and the budget process. The result is a chief executive with too few constraints and too little restraint, to the detriment of national policy and democratic processes. Here, Fisher addresses these issues and examines how Congress's attempt to reassert its will in the wake of Watergate ultimately resulted in further surrender of power to the presidency. In the end, Fisher advocates a return to constitutional principle on the part of lawmakers and the education of citizens who will insist that Congress protect those principles. $34.95 cloth; $17.95 paper

PERPETUAL WAR FOR PERPETUAL PEACE

ROBERT A. DIVINE

Here, Divine looks back at America's military past to consider how and why the nation engages in war, finding, ironically, that America's high ideals continually prevent the very peace it seeks. He looks at how the United States uses force to achieve political ends and considers how leaders bring wars to an end—a process that sheds perhaps the most light of all on the national character. “. . . should be central in the 21st century debate over why Americans so regularly send their young men and women into battle.”—Walter LaFeber, Cornell University. $29.95 cloth; $14.95 paper

CRITICAL REFLECTIONS ON THE COLD WAR

Linking Rhetoric and History

EDITED BY MARTIN J. MEDHURST AND H. W. BRANDS

Rhetoric and history intersected dramatically during the Cold War, which was, above all else, a war of words. This volume, which combines the work of historians and communication scholars, examines the public discourse in Cold War America from a number of perspectives including how rhetoric shaped history and policies and how rhetorical images invited interpretations of history. $39.95 cloth

THE TRIUMPH AND TRAGEDY OF LYNDON JOHNSON

The White House Years

JOSEPH A. CALIFANO, JR.

In this classic portrait of LBJ, Califano reveals the giant at close hand. Califano captures his mentor's lively, irascible spirit as he puts us in the White House alongside LBJ during the trauma of the Vietnam War and the creation of the Great Society. Contains a new afterword drawing on tapes recently released by the LBJ Library. “What makes this memoir . . . stand out is its vividness. ## Truth v. Justice

The Morality of Truth Commissions

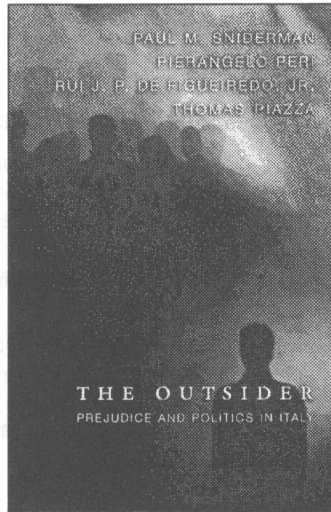

Edited by
Robert I. Rotberg and Dennis Thompson

Here leading scholars and activists representing several perspectives look at the process of truth commissioning in general and in post-apartheid South Africa in particular. They ask whether truth commissions are fair, moral, and effective in bringing about reconciliation.

"The case for truth commissions is strongly and persuasively presented in these essays, which bring together a remarkable group of lawyers, political theorists, and historians, all of them intelligently engaged with each other's concerns."—Michael Walzer

After Victory

Institutions, Strategic Restraint, and the Rebuilding of Order after Major Wars

G. John Ikenberry

The end of the Cold War was a "big bang" reminiscent of earlier moments after major wars. Here John Ikenberry asks the question: What do states that win wars do with their newfound power and how do they use it to build order?

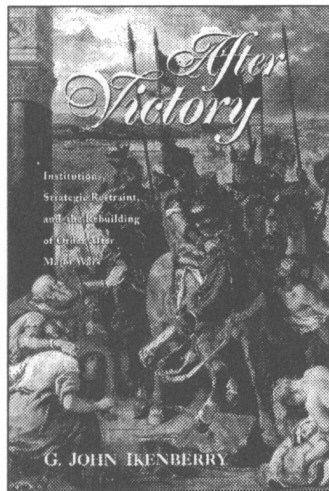

"In this pathbreaking book, John Ikenberry draws upon novel theoretical insights and historical experience to determine what policies and strategies work best as the United States attempts to lead in the struggles to create a new world order. . . . A major contribution to IR theory and to thinking about international order."

Sustaining Affirmation

The Strengths of Weak Ontology in Political Theory
Stephen K. White

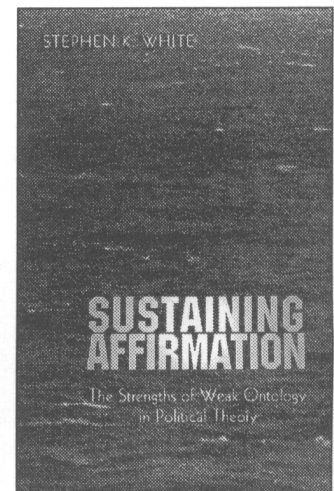

In light of many recent critiques of Western modernity, the problem of adequately justifying our most basic moral and political values looms large. Without recourse to traditional ontological or metaphysical foundations, how can one affirm—or sustain—a commitment to fundamentals? The answer, according to Stephen White, lies in a turn to "weak" ontology.

"The topic White has made his own is both a difficult one to engage and the topic that political theorists and philosophers will avoid at their peril over the next decade. . . . A timely and effective book."

The Other Mirror

Grand Theory through the Lens of Latin America
Edited by Miguel Angel Centeno and Fernando Lopez-Alves

In recent years, scholars have begun to reassess social theory from the standpoints of groups and places outside of the European context. Here a distinguished group of scholars reevaluates widely accepted theories of state, property, race, and economics against Latin American experiences. They seek to deepen our understanding of Latin America and the problems it faces. And, by testing social science paradigms against a broader variety of cases, they pursue a generalizable map of the social world.

Ballots and Bullets

The Elusive Democratic Peace

Joanne Gowa

In a thorough, systematic critique, Joanne Gowa shows that, while democracies were less likely than other states to engage each other in armed conflicts between 1945 and 1980, they were just as likely to do so as were other states before 1914. By re-examining the arguments and data that have been used to support beliefs about a democratic peace, Joanne Gowa has produced a thought-provoking book.

Practices and Principles

Approaches to Ethical and Legal Judgment

Mark Tunick

Mark Tunick takes up the debate between universalists and relativists, and, in political philosophy, between communitarians and liberals, each of which has roots in an earlier debate between Kant and Hegel.

"The central question in this lucid and thoughtful book is, what force does the existence of practices, customs, and traditions have when we make legal and ethical judgments? Tunick's answer is that as much as we need principles to criticize our practices, practices still matter for legal and ethical judgement."—Ethics

Basic Principles of Politics

Second Edition

Francisco José Moreno

“a breath of fresh air...(a) wonderful book—the best introduction to politics that I’ve ever read...”

Michael A. Weinstein, Professor of Political Science, Purdue University and author of Systematic Political Theory and The Tragic Sense of Political Life.

“I am much impressed by the way you have reduced these essential principles to terse and coherent statements. All too often...writers take many pages to describe what you have summarized so clearly.”

James MacGregor Burns, Professor of Political Science, Williams College and author of Leadership

“Moreno presents in a concise, direct fashion some of the most impressive theoretical work I have ever seen. This is definitely a book that will always be on my required textbook lists.”

Alfred G. Mueller, Professor, Penn State University.

“You have done an excellent job of pulling together many of the most important ideas and principles found in the political sciences...Congratulations on a very nice piece of work.”

Albert Somit, Professor of Political Science, University of Illinois; co-author of Darwinism, Dominance and Democracy.

“...a wonderful book.”

Hiroshi Machida, Professor, Takachiho University, Tokyo

“...most interesting book on Politics...struck by the resemblance of your ideas to Bentham in a number of respects...”

F. Rosen, Co-Editor of The Collected Works of Jeremy Bentham; Professor, University College London.

“...tremendous food for thought...sensible and lucid...”

James Fallows, author and former editor of US News & World Report.

“(a) considerable effort to develop an innovative and critical point of view.”

Leonardo Morlino, Professor, Università degli Studi di Firenze, Italy.

“Refreshing. It directs us...to the Machiavellian fundamentals in their true sense.”

Sasson Sofer, Director, The Leonard Davis Institute for International Relations, The Hebrew University of Jerusalem.

“A good approach to...many important political issues, institutions, and ideas...congratulations!”

Werner J. Patzelt, Professor, Institut für Politikwissenschaft, Dresden University, Germany.

“...thought provoking...”

Graeme Garrard, Professor, Cardiff University, UK.

“I found (your book) quite interesting...and like (your) questioning (of) political assumptions.”

Naomi Chazan, Professor of Political Science and Deputy Speaker of the Knesset. Israel.

MY SIX YEARS WITH GORBACHEV

Notes from a Diary

Anatoly S. Chernyaev

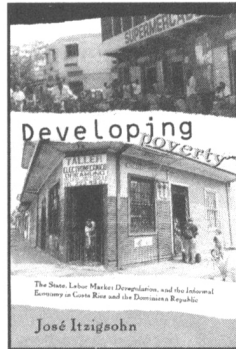

Translated and edited by Robert English and Elizabeth Tucker, with an Introduction by Robert English

With a Foreword by Jack F. Matlock Jr., Former U.S. Ambassador to the Soviet Union

"Mikhail Gorbachev's historic leadership, which transformed Russia and international relations, cannot be fully understood without the diary-memoir of Anatoly Chernyaev, one of his most important advisers and closest confidants. Splendidly translated, edited, and introduced by Robert English and Elizabeth Tucker, his Six Years with Gorbachev is now available to everyone who wants to comprehend those final momentous events of the twentieth century."

—Stephen F. Cohen, New York University

408 pages $32.50 cloth

DEVELOPING POVERTY

The State, Labor Market Deregulation, and the Informal Economy in Costa Rica and the Dominican Republic

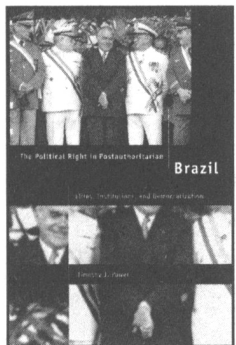

José Itzigsohn

"This book is a very useful contribution both to Latin American and Caribbean studies and to the sociology of development. The author has an excellent grasp of theory, providing insightful syntheses of the literature on the state in development and on the informal economy. In this empirically rich study, he explores the important issue of whether or not state regulation of the labor market is positive for employment and incomes. He broadens this issue to include the question of the state's developmental role in the economy."

—Bryan Roberts, University of Texas

224 pages $18.95 paper

THE POLITICAL RIGHT IN POSTAUTHORITARIAN BRAZIL

Elites, Institutions, and Democratization

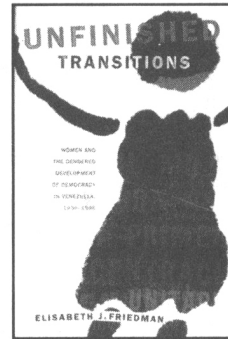

Timothy J. Power

"This book makes a significant, original contribution to Brazilian political studies in the postauthoritarian period as well as to the extensive case-study and comparative literature on democratic transitions and consolidations. It weaves together in sophisticated, carefully nuanced, and persuasive fashion a large body of literature in English and Portuguese bearing on elites, parties, electoral systems, and representative institutions."

—William Smith, University of Miami

310 pages $19.95 paper

UNFINISHED TRANSITIONS

Women and the Gendered Development of Democracy in Venezuela, 1936–1996

Elisabeth J. Friedman

"This is a major contribution to the field in several areas as it sits in the intersection of democratic transitions and consolidation, political institutions and civil society, social movements and gender politics. It takes a new approach to explaining the outcomes of women's organizing efforts by using gender analysis to explain the impact of political institutions on women's mobilization."

—Jennifer McCoy, Georgia State University

352 pages 7 illustrations $22.50 paper

WORLDS OF DIFFERENCE

European Discourses of Toleration, c. 1100–c. 1550

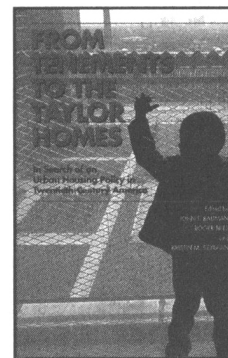

Cary J. Nederman

"This is a superb book that finds toleration where most deny that it exists—in the Middle Ages. Nederman not only finds toleration in this 'monolithically intolerant' period, but demonstrates the various sources of medieval theories of toleration: Abelard's and Lull's faith in interreligious dialogue, John of Salisbury's skepticism, William of Rubruck's view of a multireligious empire, Marsiglio of Padua's conception of the secular state, Nicholas of Cusa's acceptance of ritual heterogeneity based on national difference, and Barolome de la Casas's Ciceronian rationalism."

—Gary Remer, Tulane University

FROM TENEMENTS TO THE TAYLOR HOMES

In Search of an Urban Housing Policy in Twentieth-Century America

Edited by John F. Bauman, Roger Biles, and Kristin M. Szyliwian

"This volume brings together a talented group of historians known for their work on the city and its housing. The result is an important book that also is assignable in undergraduate and graduate courses. It should emerge as the standard in the field for many years to come."

Corruption and Good Governance

The challenge facing all societies is to create a system of governance that promotes, supports and sustains human development. This publication discusses the issue of corruption, isolating its underlying economic causes in the industrial and developing world. It assesses options for combating corruption and highlights important lessons learned from reform experiences of a number of countries. It also discusses domestic reform strategies and the role of the international community.

Annual Report of the Secretary-General on the Work of the Organization: Common Destiny, New Resolve

In this first new millennium edition of the Annual Report, Secretary-General Kofi Annan, emphasizes the need for a transition from an international to a global mentality. The Secretary-General notes, that interdependence created by globalization is creating new concepts, like thriving markets connected to human security, and new needs, like the necessity to update and restructure international economic institutions. Furthermore, the Secretary-General draws attention to the tremendous achievements that are possible to reach through cooperative solutions to common problems, not only among Governments, but also encompassing international institutions, civil society organizations and private sector.
