1982 APSA Annual Meeting

Short Courses

-20-

APSA will offer two concurrent special courses for Annual Meeting attenders on Wednesday, September 1, the day before the official opening of the Annual Meeting. W.A.E. Skurnik of the University of Colorado at Boulder will conduct an all-day seminar on coverage of foreign news in the American press.

After a morning session which will include an analysis of available empirical data on the determinants of foreign news coverage, an afternoon panel will be convened. A representative of the wire services as well as a newspaper editor will give a brief presentation which will be followed by audience participation.

In the other short course Diane Fowlkes of Georgia State University and Susette Talarico of the University of Georgia will conduct an afternoon workshop on new teaching materials on women in American politics, which can be incorporated into existing American government courses.

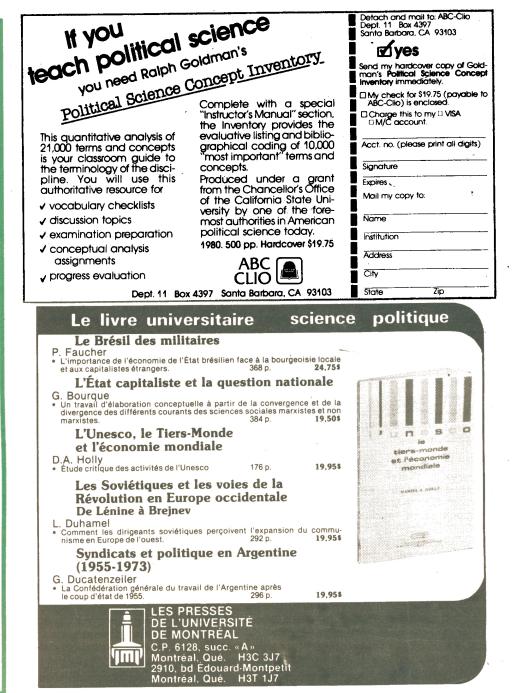

Application forms for these two short courses are available in the back of the Spring 1982 PS.

Child Care Service

Child care services will be available without charge to Annual Meeting registrants in Denver from Thursday, September 2, through Sunday, September 5, at the Denver Hilton Hotel.

The hours will be from 8:30 a.m. to 10:00 p.m. from Thursday through Saturday. On Sunday the service will be available from 8:30 a.m. until noon. Snacks will be available for the children.

Members wishing further information on the 1982 Child Care Service and registration forms should write: Child Care Coordinator, APSA, 1527 New Hampshire Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036. This service is offered by the Association in response to a request from APSA's Committee on the Status of Women.

How Capitalistic Is the Constitution?

Edited by Robert A. Goldwin and William A. Schambra $14.25 (cloth) $6.25 (paper) oes a deep contradiction exist between the constitutional promises of democratic equality and the economic, social, and political inequalities generated by American capitalism? Or is capitalism compatible with --and even essential for -- democracy? Leading spokesmen for these and a variety of other points of view put forth their claims in discussing the full political, historical, economic, legal and philosophic complexity of the relationship between democratic government and a capitalist economic system.

AEI ORDER FORM

Name Address _ City ____ _ State ____ How Capitalistic Is the How Democratic Is the Constitution? Constitution? __ copies ($12.25 cloth) copies ($14.25 cloth) _copies ($5.25 paper) copies ($6.25 paper) _ is enclosed. └ My check for $_ (Make checks payable to AEI. Payment must accompany all orders under $15.)

he second collection of essays in AEI's constitutional series, How Capitalistic Is the Constitution? continues in the tradition of its predecessor (How Democratic Is the Constitution?) by focusing on an issue that arose at the time of the Founding and remains at the center of political controversy in America today. Essays are presented by prominent economists, political scientists, and historians. Contributors to the volume are:

Walter Dean Burnham • Edward S. Greenberg • Robert Lekachman Forrest McDonald • Stephen Miller • Marc F. Plattner • Bernard H. Siegan

+ 1

Please bill me.

American Enterprise Institute 1150 Seventeenth Street, N.W. Washington, D.C. 20036

1 ...