Opposition to Sovietization in Belorussian Literature

(1917-1957)

by ANTHONY ADAMOVICH
with foreword by Alexander Dallin

A well-documented history of the struggle of Belorussian men of letters to spur their countrymen to national independence and, when that cause failed, to retain cultural and national independence within the framework of the USSR. Presenting much original material from the author's firsthand experience, it describes how poets and other writers attempted, often successfully, to evade Soviet censorship and to get their message through in the early years of Soviet power in Belorussia, 1917-1936.

Partial List of Contents: 1917-18 Revolutions • Escape Inward, 1920-22 • Reorientation and Revival • Reaction Renewed • Communist Nationalists Join In • End and Exile • Today.

Biographical Directory of the USSR

By the INSTITUTE FOR THE STUDY OF THE USSR

A unique biographical work compiled by the research staff of the Institute for the Study of the USSR in Munich, Germany. Should be invaluable for researchers, students, journalists, radio and television commentators. Will be especially valuable for data on lesser-known Soviet figures who often come unexpectedly to the top through frequent changes and shifts. The work will include over two thousand biographies of the Soviet elite.

The gathering of data has been made possible by the use of a research staff of former Soviet scholars who have at their disposal a library of 25,000 volumes of Soviet books and 5,000 volumes of Soviet journals and newspapers, including rare complete editions of Pravda, which were scanned especially for biographical data. Other sources were biographies accompanying Stalin and other awards, reports of the Soviet Academy of Science elections, minutes of Communist Party congresses and conventions, encyclopedias, and an Institute fact file of 60,000 cards.

SOVIET TRANSPORTATION POLICY

By HOLLAND HUNTER. What was the record of Soviet railroads during World War II? What role does transportation play in Soviet economic growth? In what respects have Soviet systems proved more efficient than those of the U. S.? These and other provocative questions are discussed in this first survey of Russian transportation—a case study in policy as it affects a national economy. $8.50

DOCTOR AND PATIENT IN SOVIET RUSSIA

By MARK G. FIELD, with an introduction by Paul Dudley White. This remarkably informed work moves from a discussion of the history and development of medical care in the Soviet Union to the physician and his social role and finally to the patient. We see how the actions of the Ministry of Health and of the individual physicians are strictly controlled by the Party and how the emphasis on production in Soviet society even changes the standards by which one is considered sick or well. Chapters on the patient draw on over 1600 written questionnaires. $5.00
