P.T. Bauer
Reality and Rhetoric

Studies in the Economics of Development

"One of the most distinguished development economists in the world, and undoubtedly the foremost conservative one."

—A.K. Sen,
New York Review of Books

Here is the culmination of P.T. Bauer's observations and reflections on Third World economies over a period of thirty years. In it he critically examines the central issues of market versus centrally planned economies, industrial development, official direct and multinational resource transfers to the Third World, immigration policy in the Third World, and economic methodology. In addition, he has written a fascinating account of recent papal doctrine on income inequality and redistribution in the Third World. $15.00

James H. Cassedy
American Medicine and Statistical Thinking, 1800–1860

Here is a comprehensive narrative history of early and mid-nineteenth-century American medicine and an important account of the growing popularity of statistical methods in the same period. The author examines the developments in relation to similar ones in Europe and places them in the overall setting of American social, economic, and intellectual history. $22.50

CATALOGUE OF THE GOLDSMITHS LIBRARY OF ECONOMIC LITERATURE

ONE OF THE FINEST COLLECTIONS IN THE WORLD OF EARLY WORKS ON THE SUBJECT.

'The importance of the present catalogue may be indicated by the assertion that the Goldsmiths' Library of Economic Literature is, as stated in the introduction, "...one of the finest collections in the world of early works on the subject.'" The only disagreement which one is likely to encounter with this statement will be from those who believe (along with the present reviewer) that this library is, without qualification, the finest such collection in the world.'

Prosperity without Progress

Manila Hemp and Material Life in the Colonial Philippines

by Norman G. Owen

During the 19th century Manila hemp became one of the major exports of the Philippines, bringing prosperity to Kabikolan, the rural region where most of it was grown. Yet when the industry virtually collapsed in the 1920s and 1930s, Kabikolan returned to a level of poverty from which it has not reemerged. Why was the prosperity not converted into progress? That is the central question Owen addresses in this book. $30.00

Proprietary Capitalism

The Textile Manufacture at Philadelphia, 1800-1885

PHILIP B. SCRANTON

A careful reconstruction of the rise of textile capitalism in the city that was, at the time, the greatest textile manufacturing center in America. By means of a thorough analysis of the material and cultural factors that supported its development, Philip Scranton illuminates the characteristics of the Philadelphia textile industry, which included immigrant family firms, flexible strategies for production, and an emphasis on skill, quality, and market responsiveness. About $34.50

Drastic Measures

A History of Wage and Price Controls in the United States

HUGH ROCKOFF

A history of America's use of wage and price controls from colonial times through Richard Nixon's administration. It explores the impact of controls on prices and productivity, such side effects of controls as black markets and the expansion of government, and the relationship between controls and monetary policy. About $29.95

Cross-Cultural Trade in World History

PHILIP D. CURTIN

Beginning with the ancient world and extending to the coming of the commercial revolution, Professor Curtin discusses a broad and diverse group of trading relationships among differing cultures. Drawing on insights from economic history and anthropology, he moves beyond a Europe-centered view of history to one that can help us understand the entire range of societies in the human past. Cloth about $34.50 Paper about $9.95

Peasants, Landlords and Merchant Capitalists

Europe and the World Economy, 1500-1800

PETER KRIEDTE

A concise and comprehensive analysis for students of the European economy and of the evolution of Europe's social structures in the early modern period. The author, who has been prominently involved in the debate on "proto-industrialization", here relates the emergence of rural manufacturing to the expansion of European commerce overseas.
