Olympia: Its History and Remains

By E. N. GARDINER

Although more than forty years have elapsed since Olympia was excavated by the German Government, as yet no book on the subject has appeared in English.

With 129 illustrations.

5os. net.

East Christian Art

By O. M. DALTON

The primary purpose of this handsome book is to give an objective survey of the monuments in this field. The contents are divided into these headings: General Survey; Architecture; Sculpture; Painting; Minor Arts; Ornament and Index.

Frontispiece in colour and 69 half-tone plates.

105s. net.

Roman Architecture

By G. T. RIVOIRA. Translated by G. Mc.N. RUSHFORTH.

Not a history of Roman architecture, nor a description of the buildings in the city of Rome, but an account of the buildings of Rome and Italy which illustrate what the author believed to be the essential features or discoveries of Roman architecture and their development. The book is very fully illustrated.

105s. net.

Prehistoric and Roman Wales

By R. E. M. WHEELER, Director of the National Museum of Wales.

This handbook collects into a compact and accessible form the principal evidence relating to Wales from palaeolithic to Roman times; and attempts to co-ordinate this evidence with the contemporary European cultures so as to make it intelligible to the reader who is not a specialist.

CONTENTS:—Preface; I. Cave-Man; II. The New Stone Age; III. Megaliths; IV. The Beaker Folk; V. The Bronze Age; VI. The Early Iron Age; VII. The Roman Occupation; VIII. Summary; Index.

With 114 illustrations in half-tone and line.

THESE volumes are prepared by the Royal Commissions on the Ancient and Historical Monuments of Wales, Scotland, and England respectively. They are among the most magnificent works ever devoted to the archaeology and history of Great Britain. The completeness, accuracy, and profusion of illustration which is the characteristic of each volume has won for the series a most enthusiastic welcome from the press and public alike and has established their position as the first and indispensable authority for all who have an enthusiasm for the architectural and archaeological glories of their county and homeland. For, as the Times Literary Supplement rightly observed, 'The Royal Commission, with the aid of local scholars and antiquaries, performs a work which no guide and no county history can be expected to undertake.'
