

American Speech

American Speech, founded in 1925 by Arthur G. Kennedy, Kemp Malone, H. L. Mencken, and Louise Pound, is now being edited under the sponsorship of the American Dialect Society. The new general editor is John Algeo; associate editors are James W. Hartman and A. M. Kinloch; the Miscellany editor is Edward A. Stephenson. American Speech is concerned principally with the English language in the western hemisphere, although contributions dealing with English in other parts of the world, with other languages influencing English or influenced by it, and with general linguistic theory may also be submitted. The journal welcomes articles dealing with current usage, dialectology, and the history and structure of English from any theoretical framework. Preference is given to articles that are likely to be of interest to a wide readership.

Correspondence concerning subscriptions should be addressed to Columbia University Press, Periodicals Department, 136 South Broadway, Irvington, New York 10533. Correspondence concerning membership in the American Dialect Society, whose dues include a subscription to American Speech as well as the Publication of the American Dialect Society, should be directed to the Executive Secretary, A. Hood Roberts, Center for Applied Linguistics, 1611 North Kent Street, Arlington, Virginia 22209.

Manuscripts and materials for review may be sent to the Editor, Park Hall, University of Georgia, Athens, Georgia 30601.

Better English Pronunciation

J. D. O'CONNOR

A systematic, simple and practical introduction to the speech sounds of English (Received Pronunciation) for the foreign student or teacher of English as a foreign and second language. The emphasis is on clear description of the sounds and active participation by the reader. An appendix deals with particular difficulties for Cantonese, French, German, Hindi and Spanish speakers.

This book can be used as a class text or by students working on their own.

Hard covers £2.60 net,
paperback £0.95

The two accompanying readers below may be used independently of Better English Pronunciation but give page references to it and follow the same order of presentation :

A Phonetic Drill-Reader

This book of practice material provides dialogues in a natural, colloquial style which contain a high concentration of examples for the drilling of particular features of pronunciation. The passages are presented in phonetic transcription with intonation marking and, on the facing page, in normal spelling. £0.55 net

Advanced Phonetic Reader

The passages have been chosen to illustrate the difference in the use of English 'received pronunciation' in four modes of speech : declamatory, formal colloquial, colloquial and familiar. Passages are printed in phonemic transcription and in normal spelling. £0.60 net

A Concise Pronouncing Dictionary of British and American English

J. WINDSOR LEWIS

The Concise Pronouncing Dictionary of British and American English is a unique dictionary specially prepared for users of English as a foreign language. Using the alphabet of the International Phonetic Association in a slightly simplified form of Professor A. C. Gimson's transcription, it represents the fluent, spontaneous everyday usage of educated speakers in Britain and America whose speech is least restricted as regards geographical region or social grouping.

Phonetic transcriptions are given for about 24,000 words. The inclusion of common affixes like -able, -ability, -ation, -ment, extra- and fore- gives the user an even larger vocabulary reference. Place and personal names and a selection of common abbreviations are also included. With its particular emphasis on an up to date coverage of the vocabulary of everyday affairs the dictionary gives information on hundreds of items—notably compound words—which are either neglected in other works of reference, or have not yet been included in them.

Special attention has been given to ease and speed of use. The presentation is virtually self-explanatory. Every word is given a separate, strictly alphabetic entry. If a word has more than one spelling, full information is given at each place of entry. No cross references are used. All recommended forms of pronunciation for both British and American English are given in bold type. Widely used British and American alternative forms are also included in medium weight type.

A full introductory section explains in detail the arrangement of the contents, and comments on trends of change in pronunciation, word rhythmic patterns, stress notation and other relevant topics.

A key to the symbols, a ready-reference summary of the arrangements of the entries and diagrams of the British and American vowel and diphthong systems are instantly accessible on the end papers.

A self-study reference cassette containing the key to vowels, diphthongs, consonants and stress patterns is in preparation.

Journal of the International Phonetic Association

(formerly Le Maître Phonétique)

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

Policy.—The Journal of the International Phonetic Association, formerly entitled Le Maître Phonétique, is concerned with all aspects of phonetics and phonology, on which subjects it publishes articles, specimens, correspondence, and reviews. The official language is English, though contributions in other languages of wide currency will be published as the Editor thinks fit.

Style.—Contributions should be submitted in typewritten form, in double spacing with wide margins, on one side of the sheet only, on quarto or A4 paper. Phonetic transcriptions should make use of the symbols and conventions of the Association's alphabet. If phonetic or other symbols have to be added to the manuscript by hand, they should where appropriate be identified in the margin by their grid co-ordinates shown in the journal's Reference Table of Phonetic Symbols (available from the Editor on request). Phonemic symbols should be enclosed in slants, but allophonic or general-phonetic symbols in square brackets, e.g. /tɛl/, [tʰɛt], [ɱ]. Cited forms should be italicized, without quotation marks; translational 'meanings' and quotations should be placed within SINGLE quotation marks. Technical terms and other words to which it is desired to give particular emphasis may be printed in SMALL CAPITALS, but NOT in italics. Footnotes should be avoided as far as possible; where essential they should be numbered consecutively throughout the manuscript. References are to be made IN THE TEXT by giving in parentheses the name of the author and the year of publication, and where relevant the page or pages referred to: e.g. '... (Jones, 1963: 452–3) ...'. All works so referred to should be listed, with full bibliographical details and in alphabetical order, at the end of the article. Names of books should be italicized, but titles of articles placed between single quotation marks.

Proofs and offprints.—Two copies of proofs will be sent to the author (or his nominee), who will be expected to correct them and return them to the Editor, by airmail where appropriate, within ten days of receipt. Upon publication, fifty copies of a contribution will be supplied to the author free of charge; further offprints may be purchased at cost.
