The Modern Architectural Setting of the Liturgy

William Lockett. Editor

17s. 6d. net

Church buildings "must declare the understanding of the Church about itself and its relation to the world".

The papers published in this book explore this principle from the points of view of architect and liturgist. They do not provide obvious and immediate answers to problems but seek to understand principles.

Life and Fire of Love

Prayer and its Presuppositions

Herbert M. Waddams

18s. 6d. net

The enlightenment on ascetical theology drawn from the New Testament can only be fully unfolded when we recognize the Holy Spirit at work in Christians of all traditions. Canon Waddams attempts to disentangle underlying truths from passing fashions of thought, and, urging strongly the belief that the mystical life is not reserved for the few but should be a part of every Christian's life, he provides the reader with a sound guide to which are appended many extracts from the spiritual literature of many lands and centuries.

The Art and Truth of the Parables

G. V. Jones

35s. net

The author makes a thorough survey of parable criticism since before Julicher. Exegetical exposition, however necessary, is inadequate. For the parable is an art form, capable of speaking in the field of symbol to the human situation at any time. The book ends with a searching analysis of the Prodigal Son in existential terms.

ST. NINIAN: LIGHT OF THE CELTIC NORTH

MOSA ANDERSON

A new assessment of the life and work of this scholar-saint, who played a key part in the history of the northern Celtic peoples. Miss Anderson believes that less than justice has been done to him in the past. 25s.

A STUDY OF GREGORY PALAMAS

J. MEYENDORFF

The first full study in English of the notable 14th. century Archbishop of Thessalonica. It is not only a major contribution to the understanding of Eastern Orthodoxy: the thought of Palamas has a surprising relevance to the problems of today. 40s.

RECEIVED UP INTO GLORY

K. C. THOMPSON

Studies in Christian Faith and Practice No. 11

The Rev. K. C. Thompson whose study of the Atonement made such a brilliant start to this series, now discusses the Ascension in the light of the Bishop of Woolwich's comments. He also attempts to throw light on the problem of religion in a de-Christianised and non-religious world. 7s. 6d.

The New English Bible: Greek Text

EDITOR: R. V. G. TASKER

This book gives the Greek text adopted for translation in The New English Bible. Quotations from the Old Testament have been indicated in the text by square half-brackets and references given in the footnotes. There is a short introduction explaining the principles followed by the translators in deciding the text and a list of the main textual witnesses. All variants alluded to in the footnotes to The New English Bible are discussed briefly in an Appendix. 30s. net

Baptism and Conversion

JOHN BAILLIE

What is the relationship between baptism, regeneration, and the experience of conversion? To this question, which is apt to arise in ecumenical discussion, Dr Baillie devoted the lectures which form this book. It makes a timely contribution to current discussions of Baptism in the Church. 21s net

The Interpretation of the New Testament 1861-1961

STEPHEN NEILL

Bishop Neill surveys the historical development of N.T. criticism from Strauss and Renan to Bultmann, putting diverse movements in perspective and skilfully assessing the present position. 45s net
