

Linguistic Speculations

FRED W. HOUSEHOLDER

A highly personal, theoretically heterodox and very controversial book, by an eminent linguist. It surveys a number of general linguistic problems, setting out the present position, questioning some underlying assumptions, and testing the adequacy of current theories.

Pidginization and Creolization of Languages

Proceedings of a Conference held at the University of the West Indies, Mona, Jamaica, April 1968

Edited by DELL HYMES

Selected and edited papers from the international conference on pidgin and creole languages. The introduction by David DeCamp provides a guide to current theories on pidgins and creoles, their origin, diffusion and, in some cases, decline. It describes the emergence of creole studies and discusses their direction and problems. Professor Hymes provides a preface and introductions to each of the five parts of the book.

CAMBRIDGE STUDIES IN LINGUISTICS

The Grammar of Case

Towards a Localistic Theory

JOHN M. ANDERSON

A study of the different roles which nouns play in the event or state expressed by the verb or adjective with which they are associated. The book explores, within the framework of transformational-generative grammar, the 'localized hypothesis' which asserts that all the roles for nouns involve basically the notions of location and direction.

English-Teaching Information Centre (ETIC)

The English-Teaching Information Centre is maintained by the British Council as a study centre and clearing-house for information on all aspects of teaching English as a second or foreign language overseas. Since its foundation in 1961 the Centre has developed a network of communication with individuals and institutions in Great Britain and more than 120 other countries. Its services are available to all who are professionally concerned—students, teachers, trainers of teachers, research workers, administrators or writers. Enquiries should be addressed to:

Centre for Information on Language Teaching (CILT)

The Centre for Information on Language Teaching, established in 1966, is an independent foundation supported by grants from the Department of Education and Science, the Scottish Education Department, and the Ministry of Education, Northern Ireland. It coordinates and provides information about all aspects of modern languages (including English as a second language) and their teaching in Great Britain. Further information can be obtained from:

LONDON WC1R 4TN

ETIC and CILT, which occupy adjacent accommodation, maintain jointly the Language-Teaching Library (about 23,000 volumes), where files of journals covered by Language-Teaching Abstracts may be consulted. The library also includes an audio-visual section with facilities for hearing and viewing teaching materials; a register of relevant current research is available for reference.

In addition to joint publications such as Language-Teaching Abstracts and A Language-Teaching Bibliography, each centre issues publications from time to time in its own name.
