Labor in Latin America

COMPARATIVE ESSAYS ON CHILE,
ARGENTINA, VENEZUELA, AND COLOMBIA

Charles Bergquist. Workers, especially those engaged in production for export, have played a major role in the modern history of Latin American societies. This is the bold new thesis of a study that challenges standard interpretations that have usually portrayed workers as passive, weak, or unimportant spectators in the drama of Latin American history. By focusing on the experience of workers in export production—nitrate miners in Chile, meatpackers in Argentina, coffee producers in Colombia, and petroleum workers in Venezuela—the author provides a new comparative perspective on Latin American labor formation, economic development, and political change. More broadly, the study reveals the interpretive utility and philosophical implications of placing labor at the center of modern historical analysis. Illustrated. Cloth, $39.50; paper, $14.95

The Catholic Church and Politics in Brazil, 1916-1985

Scott Mainwaring. Nowhere in the Roman Catholic world of the last two decades has the Church proven itself more pastorally innovative, theologically original, and politically progressive than in Brazil—the nation with the greatest number of Catholics in the world. For years the Brazilian military government condemned the Church as a subversive institution, and by 1982 it was in an ongoing battle with the Vatican and the Latin American Bishops Conference. To explain how the Church assumed such great importance, the author analyzes radical Catholicism in Brazil: its precursors, emergence, development, triumphs, dilemmas, and (since 1982) its decline. The book concludes with an analysis of why Brazil's radical Catholics faced an uphill struggle after 1982 as the country continued its transition to liberal democracy. $36.00

This comprehensive two-volume history presents a new interpretation of one of the world's most important revolutions. Sugar Plantations in the Formation of a Brazilian Society: Bahia 1550-1835

STUART B. SCHWARTZ

This study examines the history of the sugar economy and the peculiar development of plantation society over a three hundred year period in Bahia, a major sugar plantation zone and important terminus of the Atlantic slave trade. While the author devotes much attention to masters and slaves, he views slavery ultimately as part of a larger structure of social and economic relations.

Catholic Colonialism

A Parish History of Guatemala, 1524-1821

ADRIAAN C. VAN OSS

The parish was the fundamental ecclesiastical institution brought by Spain to the New World, and perhaps even the principal instrument of empire. Drawing widely on Guatemalan archive sources, this pioneering study traces the origins and development of the parishes of a single Central American diocese from conquest to independence.

Response to Revolution

Imperial Spain and the Spanish American Revolutions, 1810-1840

MICHAEL P. COSTELOE

An examination of the Spanish response, military, economic and social, to the anti-imperial revolutions of Latin America in the early nineteenth century. Unlike most histories, this book looks at how the Spaniards themselves, not the heroic liberators, viewed the events by analysing a broad spectrum of Spanish opinion from politicians and diplomats to journalists and merchants.

INTELLECTUALS AND THE STATE IN TWENTIETH-CENTURY MEXICO By RODERIC A. CAMP

Camp's rigorous examination of intellectuals in Mexico is the first study of a Latin American country to detail the structure of intellectual life rather than merely considering intellectual ideas. Using original sources, including extensive interviews, the author provides new data about and an interpretation of the evolution of leading Mexican intellectuals and their relationship to politics and politicians since 1920. $10.95 paperback $25.00 hardcover

INDUSTRY, THE STATE, AND PUBLIC POLICY IN MEXICO By DALE STORY

A significant analysis of the political and economic roles of the industrial entrepreneurs in postwar Mexico. Story looks at production data and political attitudes of key industrial leaders to explore the meaning of late and dependent development and the nature of the authoritarian state. Story accepts the general relevance of these themes but asserts that the country is an important variant of both. $30.00 hardcover

MARY, MICHAEL, AND LUCIFER Folk Catholicism in Central Mexico By JOHN M. INGHAM

"In Mary, Michael, and Lucifer there is a wonderful blending of the religious with other cultural domains. . . . contains the best discussion of Mexican peasant ideas about biological conception that I know [and] outstanding analyses of folk medicine, male drinking patterns, and the moral qualities of the landscape in and around Tlayacapan." —STANLEY BRANDES $25.00 hardcover

THE KUNA GATHERING Contemporary Village Politics in Panama By JAMES HOWE

An illuminating look at the Kuna political system from the point of view of the town meetings at its core. Based on fieldwork carried out for more than a decade, The Kuna Gathering looks at sacred convocations and secular councils, both vividly presented through actual speeches and chants taken from field recordings. $30.00 hardcover

Journal of Latin American Studies is published twice a year under the academic sponsorship of the Centres or Institutes of Latin American Studies at the University of Cambridge, Essex, Glasgow, Liverpool, London and Oxford.

The scope of the journal is the study of Latin America from the standpoint of the social sciences, including anthropology, archaeology, economics, geography, history, international relations, politics, sociology, etc., though it is not concerned with linguistic or literary studies.

Editorial policy avoids commitment to any political viewpoint or ideology, but welcomes free discussion of such issues in the Latin American context, on the understanding that all responsibility for opinions expressed rests exclusively with the author concerned and not with either the journal or its editors.

Contributions are invited from all parts of the world. Articles should generally not be more than 8,000 words long, and two copies, typed with double-spacing, should be submitted. Diagrams and maps may be included by arrangement with the editors. The journal is published in English, but articles written in other languages may be considered, and arrangements made as required for translation into English. Contributors should keep one copy of the typescript for use in correcting proofs.

All contributions and editorial correspondence should be addressed to Journal of Latin American Studies, Institute of Latin American Studies, 31 Tavistock Square, London, WC1H 9HA.

Each contributor will receive, free of charge, 25 offprints of the article and a copy of the issue of the journal in which it appears.
