JESUS AND THE KINGDOM

The Eschatology of Biblical Realism

George Eldon Ladd

32s. 6d. net

Published in the U.S.A. by Harper and Row Inc.

'I can only express enthusiastic approval. Professor Ladd's survey of thought on the Kingdom is marked by great learning and scrupulous fairness, and his analysis of all the problems is penetrating and balanced. . . . The integrity of his scholarship is evident on every page.' H. H. Rowley.

CHRISTIANS AND JEWS: ENCOUNTER AND MISSION

Jakob Jocz

6s. 6d. net

Dr Jocz, a distinguished Hebrew Christian, gives a reasoned basis for Christian mission work among Jews. The test of the Church's Christianity lies precisely in its missionary seriousness. Confrontation is his watchword, and he writes with prophetic fire against the syncretic tendencies of our time. Nonetheless he is sure that 'only by facing the Synagogue can the Church discover her own nature.'

I LOVED THIS PEOPLE

Dietrich Bonhoeffer

5s.

Translated by Keith R. Crim

Published in the U.S.A. by the John Knox Press

Bonhoeffer is now popularly associated with the idea of 'religionless Christianity'. Here he reveals himself in a more orthodox, but no less thought-provoking and challenging light. This collection of writings will help to correct an unbalanced appraisal of an author whose insights are of the greatest relevance today.

IMAGES OF MEN

Roger Mehl

5s.

Translated by J. H. Farley

Published in the U.S.A. by the John Knox Press

The Professor of Ethics at the Faculty of Protestant Theology, University of Strasbourg, looks at the Marxist, the Existentialist, and the Christian. His purpose is not to demonstrate the superiority of the Christian, but to understand. For to understand his neighbour is the greatest service man can give.

Horace Bushnell

H. SHELTON SMITH

The Introduction to this book places Horace Bushnell in historical context and discusses the theological environment within which he framed his own fresh and distinctive position. Shorter introductions describe the circumstances out of which emerged those selections of Bushnell's leading works reproduced in the book, which include God in Christ, Christian Nurture, Nature and the Supernatural, and The Vicarious Sacrifice. The editor, far from echoing conventional interpretations of Bushnell's thought, at several points takes issue with prevailing views, defending his position by an appeal to the original sources, including some unpublished manuscripts. 'A Library of Protestant Thought' series.

Early Christian Thought and the Classical Tradition

HENRY CHADWICK

This (the author's Hewett Lectures at the Union Theological Seminary, New York) is a study in the dialogue between the early Christians and the culture of the old classical world. He takes three Christian thinkers, Justin, Clement of Alexandria, and Origen, and shows what the debate looked like from the Christian side. 180 pages 21s net

BLACK'S NEW TESTAMENT COMMENTARIES

A Commentary on The Revelation of St John the Divine

G. B. CAIRD

Dr Caird's purpose is to put the reader in the position of the Asiatic Christians of the first century, to hear what the Spirit was then saying to the churches, and better understand what the Spirit is saying to the churches today. He underlines St. John's use of imagination, and provides an illuminating study of the theology of Revelation. May 32s

The demand for this companion volume to this series has necessitated the printing of a new edition which has given the author the opportunity to make a substantial number of minor revisions and alterations. 'No biblical scholar can afford to miss it. . . . It might almost be made an obligatory prelude to New Testament criticism.' J. T. S. 2nd edn 25s
