

People in Political Science

Activities

Allan Austin, professor of political science, SUNY, Fredonia, spent several months during the spring and summer of 1983 as a consultant to the government of Peru under an AID contract.

Steven J. Brams has been named the American Political Science Association's delegate to the American Association for the Advancement of Science Section on Social, Economic, and Political Sciences for 1983-86.

Adda B. Bozeman, Professor Emeritus of International Relations at Sarah Lawrence College, was invited by the Academy of International Law at the Hague and the United Nations University to present a paper on "The Future of International Law in a Multicultural World" at a workshop on that subject held November 16-19, 1983. The paper, delivered on November 17, will be published by the Academy.

Mrs. Bozeman gave the inaugural lecture for a three-year cycle of multicultural studies at Marlboro College, Vermont, on October 6, 1983.

William D. Coleman, assistant professor of political science, McMaster University, has received a Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada Leave Fellowship for one year beginning July 1, 1983. He is spending his leave as Guest Fellow, International Institute of Management, Wissenschaftszentrum Berlin, West Berlin.

John T. Everett, Jr., professor of political science, SUNY, Fredonia, was on sabbatical leave during 1982-83 doing research on U.S. defense policy.

Earl Fry, Department of Political Science, Brigham Young University, is currently on leave as a fellow of the Council on Foreign Relations in the Investment Policies Division of the Office of the United States Trade Representative.

Mark Griffiths has been promoted to assistant vice president, resources and technology, at the National Association of Manufacturers. While continuing as director of natural resources, Griffiths will also be responsible for NAM policy in environmental quality, science, technology and energy. He holds a B.A. in political science from East Carolina University and an M.A. in science policy from George Washington University.

W. Ladd Hollist, Department of Political Science, Brigham Young University, was recently awarded a fellowship from the David M. Kennedy Center for International Studies to study poverty and industrialization in Brazil, Taiwan, and Korea. He will be on leave winter semester, 1984.

W. Ladd Hollist and F. LaMond Tullis, Department of Political Science, Brigham Young University, are editing the International Political Economy Yearbook for the International Political Economy Section of the International Studies Association.

Jon Kraus, professor of political science, SUNY, Fredonia, is on sabbatical leave during 1983-84 doing research on the political role of multinational corporations and on the political economy of labor in Ghana between 1939-1981.

Donley T. Studlar, associate professor of government, has returned to Centre College from an eight-month sabbatical leave at the University of Warwick, England. While there he experienced the British General Election of 1983, delivered guest lectures at the University of Reading and Plymouth Polytechnic, and participated in the Work Group on United Kingdom Politics at Oxford.

Mark Griffiths is Assistant Vice President, Resources and Technology Department, of the National Association of Manufacturers in Washington, D.C.

Administrative Appointments

Chadwick Alger, professor, Ohio State University, elected as Secretary General, International Peace Research Association.

Gary Andres, vice president, Prudential-Bache Washington Research (energy and telecommunications).

Robert J. Huckshorn, Interim Dean of the College of Education, Florida Atlantic University; Huckshorn will continue to serve as Dean of the College of Social Science.

James Hurtgen, chairman, Department of Political Science, SUNY, Fredonia.

Henry J. Jacek has been appointed chairman of the Department of Political Science, McMaster University, for a three-year term beginning July 1, 1983; formerly associate chairman.

Arthur Jay Klinghoffer, professor of political science at Rutgers University, has been appointed as chairman of the Department of Political Science at the Camden campus.

Anne Permaloff, director, Air University Graduate Program, Auburn University at Montgomery.

Arthur L. Peterson has been named the fourteenth president of Lebanon Valley College, Annville, PA. Peterson is currently dean of special programs at Eckerd College, served two terms in the Wisconsin state legislature from 1951 to 1955, and taught political science at the University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire from 1954 to 1960.

Hoyt R. Purvis, acting director, J. William Fulbright Institute of International Relations, University of Arkansas, Fayetteville; continues as associate professor of political science and journalism; formerly of the Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs, University of Texas.

C. David Sutton, chairperson, Political Science/Criminal Justice Department, Appalachian State University.

Dennis L. Thompson, professor of political science, Brigham Young University, has been named chairman, Department of Political Science, replacing F. LaMond Tullis.

Arthur L. Peterson has been named President of Lebanon Valley College.

New Appointments

Eugene Brown, assistant professor, Lebanon Valley College, Annville, PA.

Barbara J. Burt, assistant professor, Texas A&M University; formerly of the University of California-Riverside.

Barbara M. Giles, assistant professor, Auburn University.

Ronald C. Heacock, assistant professor, Texas A&M University; formerly of Michigan State University.

Eric B. Herzik, assistant professor, Texas A&M University; formerly of Southern Illinois University.

William E. Jackson, Jr., senior fellow, J. William Fulbright Institute of International Relations and associate professor, University of Arkansas, Fayetteville; formerly of the Brookings Institution.

Anton G. Jachim, director of the graduate program, Metropolitan State University; formerly with U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Eric A. Jones, assistant professor of political science, Brigham Young University; formerly lecturer of political science at Hamilton College.

Stephen P. Larkin, instructor of political science, Averett College; formerly assistant instructor at University of Kansas.

James P. Lester, associate professor, Department of Political Science, Colorado State University; formerly at Texas A&M.

Daniel C. McCool, assistant professor, Texas A&M University.

Thomas Mans, assistant professor of political science, Creighton University; formerly assistant professor at Berea College.

Tim R. Miller, instructor of political science, University of Arkansas, Fayetteville; formerly at the University of Utah.

Stephen P. Mumme, assistant professor, Department of Political Science, Colorado State University; formerly at University of Arizona.

John P. Pelissero, assistant professor, Texas A&M University.

Barbara M. Rowland, assistant professor, Department of Political Science, Colorado State University; formerly at University of Oregon.

Fred Smoller, assistant professor, Chapman College, Orange, CA.

Carter A. Wilson, assistant professor, University of Toledo.

Promotions

David L. Martin, professor, Auburn University.

Warren B. Moody, associate professor, Auburn University at Montgomery.

William D. Muller, professor at SUNY, Fredonia. In the spring of 1983 the Centre for the Study of Public Policy of Strathclyde University, Glasgow, Scotland, and the British Politics Group, Ames, Iowa, published the fifth edition of his British Politics Research Register.

Joel A. Thompson, associate professor, Appalachian State University.

Thomas J. Vocino, professor, Auburn University at Montgomery.

Retirements

Richard N. Swift, professor of politics at New York University, retired effective August 31, 1983. He has been named Professor Emeritus of Politics.

Visiting and Temporary Appointments

Paul D. Collins will be visiting professor at Texas Tech University from January 1984 through May 1985.

Karen Feste, of the University of Denver Graduate School of International Studies, was visiting professor of political science at Brigham Young University for fall semester 1983.

Arthur Goddard, Simon Fraser University, spent fall semester as visiting associate professor in the Department of Political Science, Brigham Young University.

Gerald Hanson, Northern Arizona University, is spending a sabbatical year as a visiting scholar in the Department of Political Science, Brigham Young University.

Mary D. Herzik, visiting instructor, Texas A&M University.

Chun-tu Hsueh, University of Maryland, has been invited to lecture at Wuhan and other leading universities in China in March. He will be professor of government at Harvard University Summer School, 1984.

Robert S. Jordan, University of New Orleans, was visiting professor at Brigham Young University in 1983.

Andre Liebich is spending the year as a visiting scholar at the Hoover Institution doing archival research under a grant from the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada.

Former Congressman Richardson Preyer (D-N.C., 1969-1981) served as a visiting fellow at the State University of New York, Plattsburgh, for a week in October 1983. In Plattsburgh, Mr. Preyer presented public lectures and classes on United States national politics, with an emphasis on congressional ethics and political assassinations. His residency was sponsored by the Association of Former Members of Congress, Washington, D.C. and by the SUNY College at Plattsburgh. The visit was arranged by former Congresswoman Martha Keys, director of educational programs for the association, and by Professor Harvey L. Schantz of the college.

Dennis L. Thompson served as visiting scholar in the Department of Politics, Edinburgh University, Edinburgh, Scotland, during the academic year 1982-83.

F. LaMond Tullis is visiting fellow, Institute for Development Studies, University of Sussex, Brighton, England, and visiting scholar, Department of Political Science, London School of Economics, for the year 1983-84.

Award Recipients

Arkansas Political Science Association

The award for the best student paper at the 1983 Arkansas Political Science Association has gone to Lance Thornton, M.P.A. graduate student at the University of Arkansas, Little Rock. The title of the paper is "The Supreme Court and the American Public—An Analysis."

American Fulbright Scholars 1983-84

The following political scientists have been awarded Fulbright grants to lecture, carry out research, or study abroad:

Joan B. Aron, Office of Policy Analysis, Nuclear Regulatory Commission. Lecturing in public policy/energy policy: Haifa University, Haifa, Israel. 5 months, 1/84-5/84.

James F. Barnes, associate professor of political science, Ohio University. Lecturing in political science: Omar Bongo University, Libreville, Gabon. 10 months, 9/83-6/84.

Peter Dennis Bathory, associate professor of political science, Rutgers, The State University. Lecturing in political science: University of Yaounde, Cameroon. 3 months, 10/83-12/83.

Charles E. Butterworth, associate professor of government, University of Maryland. Research in Aristotle's sophistry/rhetoric/poetics: Cairo University, Cairo, Egypt. 3 months, 7/83-10/83 (Islamic civilization project).

Gerald E. Caiden, professor of public administration, University of Southern California, Los Angeles. Lecturing and research in public administration: Yonsei University, Seoul, Korea. 3 months, 3/84-5/84.