LANGUAGE AND COGNITION is a venue for the publication of high quality peer-reviewed research of a theoretical and/or empirical/experimental nature, focusing on the interface between language and cognition. It publishes research from the full range of subject disciplines, theoretical backgrounds, and analytical frameworks that populate the language and cognitive sciences, on a wide range of topics. Research published in the journal adopts an interdisciplinary, comparative, multi-methodological approach to the study of language and cognition and their intersection. Further details regarding topics published in the journal are available on the journal website: www.languageandcognition.net.

The journal is open to contributions from any theoretical perspective and methodological approach which bears on the scientific study of language and its relationship with cognition. In particular, it publishes both theoretical and empirical research.

LANGUAGE AND COGNITION invites authors to submit their manuscripts electronically to the General Editors (submissions@languageandcognition.net). Specific queries regarding possible submissions or other journal-related matters should be addressed to the Managing Editor, Stéphanie Pourcel at the above e-mail address. Electronic correspondence relating to the journal will only be accepted at this e-mail address. Books for review should be sent directly to the Review Editor, Dylan Glynn, Dept. of Linguistics, University of Lund, Box 201, Lund 22100, Sweden.

LANGUAGE AND COGNITION is published as one volume of two issues per year (approximately 300 pages), appearing in May and November.

New Series:

Semiotics, Communication and Cognition (SCC)

Edited by
Paul Cobley

The series is designed to present developments in contemporary semiotics by focusing primarily on specific areas of its application. In addition to their specific focus, the books in this series give a rounded picture of current semiotics. Their emphasis is on current theory and the possibilities offered by the implementation of such theory. SCC is a peer-reviewed series of international scope.
