THE WTO CASE LAW OF 2001
THE AMERICAN LAW INSTITUTE
REPORTERS' STUDIES

This book is the first in a new series of annual volumes that will be utilized in the development of an American Law Institute (ALI) project on World Trade Organization Law. The project will undertake yearly analysis of the case law from the adjudicating bodies of the WTO. The Reporters' Studies for 2001 cover a wide range of WTO law ranging from classic trade in goods issues to intellectual property protection. Each of the cases is jointly evaluated by an economist and a lawyer, both well-known experts in the field of trade law or international economics. The Reporters critically review the jurisprudence of WTO adjudicating bodies and attempt to evaluate whether the ruling "makes sense" from an economic as well as a legal point of view, and, if not, whether the problem lies in the interpretation of the law or the law itself. The Studies do not always cover all issues discussed in a case, but they seek to discuss both the procedural and the substantive issues that form the "core" of the dispute.

HENRIK HORN is Professor of International Economics and Deputy Director at the Institute for International Economic Studies, Stockholm University. He has previously worked for the Economic Research and Analysis Division of the World Trade Organization, and has been a judge in the Swedish Market Court (supreme court for competition cases). He is a member of the Editorial Board of the World Trade Review and is a research fellow at the Centre for Economic Policy Research (CEPR).

PETROS C. MAVROIDIS is Professor of Law at the University of Neuchâtel and Columbia Law School. He was previously Chair of Competition Law, European University Institute, Florence and a member of both the Legal Affairs Division of the World Trade Organization and the Centre for Economic Policy Research (CEPR). He is Associate Editor of the Journal of World Trade and a member of the Editorial Board of the World Trade Review, Columbia Journal of Transnational Law, and Columbia Journal of European Law.
