

The Foreign Policy of Saudi Arabia

The Formative Years, 1902-1918

JACOB GOLDBERG

Saudi foreign policy, let alone its underlying guidelines, has never received the separate scholarly treatment its importance warrants. Jacob Goldberg's book is the first to provide a detailed examination of the roots of Saudi Arabia's foreign policy, which, it argues, are to be found in the Kingdom's formative years.

Excavations at Saraçhane in Istanbul

Volume 1

R. M. Harrison

With contributions by M. V. Gill,
M. Hendy, S. J. Hill, D. Brothwell,
and K. Kosswig

This work is the first volume of two that will be the full report of major excavations carried out by Dumbarton Oaks and the Istanbul Archaeological Museum at Saraçhane in the heart of ancient Constantinople. The main objective of the excavations, which extended over six seasons, was the palace-church of St. Polyuktos, erected by the Byzantine princess Anicia Juliana in 524–527 and hitherto known only from historical sources. Excavation revealed a church that was for a time the largest and most sumptuous in the city and of extraordinary importance both architecturally and for its exotic decoration. (It now appears that it was modeled on biblical descriptions of Solomon's Temple at Jerusalem.) This volume includes discussion of excavation and stratigraphy; catalogs of sculpture, revetment, mosaic, small finds and other materials; and general treatment of architecture, sculpture, and history of the site.

Bureaucrat and Intellectual in the Ottoman Empire

The Historian Mustafa Âli
(1541–1600)

Cornell H. Fleischer

Mustafa Âli was the foremost historian of the sixteenth-century Ottoman Empire, the first systematic critic of Ottoman administration, and the formulator of what later became the accepted Ottoman ideology of classical greatness and decline. Most modern scholars of the Ottoman period have focused on economic and institutional issues, but this ground-breaking study (one of the few biographies in the Islamic field as a whole) uses Âli and his works as the basis for analyzing the nature of intellectual and social life in a formative period of the Ottoman Empire.

Averroes' Middle Commentary on Aristotle's Poetics

Translated, with notes
and introduction,

by Charles E. Butterworth

Said to be the greatest among the Muslim commentators on Aristotle, Averroes (1126–1198) in this work investigates his own poetical tradition from a unique Platonic and Aristotelian perspective. The result is an eloquent analysis of the qualities of both Greek and Arabic poetry. Charles Butterworth offers a translation of the commentary that is not only the first in English from the Arabic original, but the first from the Arabic text in any language other than medieval Hebrew or Latin. $22.50

The Cambridge History of Iran

Volume 2: The Median and Achaemenian Periods

Ilya Gershevitch, Editor

The Cambridge History of Iran is a seven-volume survey of Iranian history and culture, and its contribution to the civilization of the world. The second volume describes the formation, in the 6th century B.C., of the earliest multi-national empire and its eventual dissolution under Alexander's conquest of Iran in 331 B.C. Contributions by specialists ensure that the intensive research of recent years is incorporated into the synthesis.

Between Battles and Ballots

Israeli Military in Politics

Yoram Peri

"...an important and illuminating contribution to an underdeveloped field of research."

—Midstream

Peri is a political scientist, journalist, former adviser to Prime Minister Rabin, and spokesman of the Labor Party. From his unique vantage point, he demonstrates that state control of the military is weak and that a pattern of civil-military partnership has emerged.

A Short History of Modern Egypt

Afaf Lutfi al Sayyid Marsot

This history of Egypt from the Arab conquest in 639 to the present day highlights central features of Egyptian identity: the alienation of the Egyptian from his rulers, who until 1952 were foreigners, and the continuity of their homeland in an area with fixed boundaries that has existed for millennia. The author stresses the influence of economic conditions, as well as Islam and Arab nationalism, on government, and foreign and domestic policy.

Notes for Contributors

Contributions and Editorial Correspondence should be sent to the Editor, Peter von Sivers, Middle East Center, University of Utah, Salt Lake City, Utah 84112. Authors should reserve one full copy of their manuscript for use in correcting proofs. Articles must be in English, should not exceed 12,000 words, and should be accompanied by a short summary. Spelling, capitalization, and punctuation must be consistent within each article and conform with the latest edition of A Manual of Style (University of Chicago Press).

Preparation of Manuscript. A title page should be prepared carrying the article title, auxiliary short title (not over 50 characters), author's full name (in the form preferred for publication), and author's affiliation (including mailing address). The entire manuscript (including notes) should be typed double-spaced on 8 1/2 × 11 inch or A4 paper, with margins set to accommodate 70 characters per line and 25 lines per page, and should not exceed 43 typed pages. Manuscript pages should be numbered consecutively.

Loanwords and Foreign Words. Loanwords (accepted English words such as ulama, alim, Shi'ite, sheikh, qadi, Sunni, and others) should be spelled in accordance with the first choice presented in Webster's Third New International Dictionary. Foreign words (not yet loanwords) must conform with the Journal's transliteration system; they should be italicized and defined at first use (and not italicized thereafter). Diacritics, except for ains and hamzas, should be omitted except where they are imperative to the argument. Authors who do use diacritics and transliteration have the total responsibility for consistency and accuracy in manuscript.
