EROS AND PSYCHE

Studies in Plato, Plotinus, and Origen

by JOHN M. RIST

The aim is to show the philosophically fruitful divergencies in Plato's opinion on the highest topics—the good, the nature of love, the aim of the life of virtue—and to understand how Plotinus and Origen handled the Platonic originals and developed Platonic themes. $6.95

PHILOSOPHICAL THINKING:

ITS PROBLEMS AND METHODS

By M.C. Beardsley and E.L. Beardsley

Objective of this text is to introduce the student to the central problems of philosophy and to induce him to think them through as far as possible on the elementary level. Beginning with a consideration of several problems in the Philosophy of Religion, an area already partly discovered by the student, the authors then discuss the three major types of philosophic problems: Epistemological, metaphysical, and ethical problems. To be published in April/65. Probable Price $7.65.

MAN AND HIS WORLD:

INTRODUCTORY READINGS

Edited by Oliver A. Johnson

Although a well balanced introduction to the main fields and issues of philosophy, the distinguishing feature of this volume is its Humanistic orientation. Each of the six parts begins with an essay by the editor introducing the field to be presented. Selections from most of the major Western writers have been included, with brief biographical sketches at the beginning. Now Available. $8.50.

PHILOSOPHY IN THE WEST:

READINGS IN ANCIENT AND MEDIEVAL PHILOSOPHY

Edited by R.H. Weingartner and J. Katz

Offers a first course in the history of Western Philosophy from the Pre-Socratics to the Middle Ages. The entire section on early Greek Philosophy has been newly translated especially for this text. Previously much of the material included was either unavailable in English or accessible only on the library reference shelf. All other translations have been carefully selected to provide the most readable and scholarly editions. To be published Feb./65. Probable price $8.75.
