

From the Editor

WITH THIS ISSUE, we are pleased to announce two new members of the Business Ethics Quarterly leadership team. Kenneth Goodpaster (University of St. Thomas) has served on the editorial board for many years and will now serve as an associate editor. Ken will provide additional coverage for the journal in many areas of philosophy, theology, and theoretical corporate social responsibility. Jeffery Smith (University of Redlands) is stepping into the role of book review editor after many years of service on the editorial board. Authors, readers, or reviewers with ideas for book reviews are encouraged to contact Jeffery directly. At BEQ we want to continue providing timely, authoritative reviews of new books in the field and this goal can best be accomplished with the assistance of our readership.
