Ecclesiastical History Society

The aim of the society is to foster the study of ecclesiastical history viewed in a wide historical context and broad inter-disciplinary relationship, and without regard to denominational differences or divisions. Regular meetings and conferences are held, and membership is open to scholars of all nationalities by election upon nomination, and to libraries and institutions.

Studies in Church History is an annually published series comprising papers and communications delivered at the society's conferences, and each volume presents important new work, by established as well as by younger scholars, upon a particular theme. Volumes are available to members of the society at a reduced price.

'... a tightly-packed book full of facts and ideas, about problems in all periods from the New Testament and the age of the Fathers down to our own time ... the whole book [has] a unity even while it respects the variety of milieu and of periods studied and of the writers themselves ... well-informed, objective and full of balanced judgements.'

(JEAN LECLERCQ, The Heythrop Journal)

'Such volumes of essays are notorious for unevenness. This is the first such volume I have ever read, in which I have learnt something of value from every essay in the book.'
