

Notes on the Contributors

Rafael Argullol, philosopher, writer and novelist, won the Nadal Prize for his volume of poetry La Raison du mal. He holds the chair of aesthetics and art theory at Pompeu Fabra University, Barcelona, where he heads the University Institute of Culture (IUC). His research is concerned with the philosophy of culture, cultural and literary myths, and Greek tragedy. His published works include: Le Quattrocento, L'Attraction de l'abîme, Le Héros et l'unique, La Fatigue de l'Occident and La Fin du monde comme oeuvre d'art. Address: Institut Universitari de Cultura, Universitat Pompeu Fabra, Edifici Jaume I (Campus de la Ciutadella), Taron Trias fargas 25–7, 08005 Barcelona, Spain. [email: iuc@upf.edu]

Henri Atlan, a medical doctor and holder of a doctorat d'état (PhD) in science, was a researcher with NASA at the AMES Research Center and is currently emeritus professor in biophysics at the Universities of Paris-VI and Jerusalem. He is director of research at the École des Hautes Etudes en Sciences Sociales (EHESS) in Paris, director of the Human Biology Research Centre and 'scholar in residence' in philosophy and the ethics of biology at the Hadassah University Hospital, Jerusalem. He has written a theory of complexity and auto-organization as well as many books on cell biology and immunology, artificial intelligence and on philosophy and bioethics. Address: 156 bd Montparnasse, 75014 Paris, France. [email: Henri.Atlan@ehess.fr]

Tanella Boni, philosopher, poet and novelist, was vice-dean of the faculty of letters, arts and human sciences at the University of Abidjan and president of the Association of Côte d'Ivoire Writers. A member of the World Academy of Poetry, she has written around 15 novels, essays and poetry collections. In her writing (poems, novels, essays, short stories, etc.) she is concerned with the sharing of knowledge, defence of human rights, living together, the idea of humanity and the day-to-day life of women. Her recent publications include: 'Letter to future generations' (Unesco, 1999), Matins de couvre-feu (Prix Ahmadou Kourouma, 2005) and Les Nègres n'iront jamais au paradis (2006). Address: c/o Cipsh, 1 rue Miollis, 75732 Paris Cedex 15, France. [email: sysson2006@yahoo.fr]

Copyright © UNESCO 2007

SAGE: Los Angeles, London, New Delhi and Singapore, <http://dio.sagepub.com>

DOI: 10.1177/0392192107081175

Michael Mousa Karayanni holds the Edward S. Silver chair in civil process at the law faculty of the Hebrew University, Jerusalem. A former director of the Minerva Center for Human Rights, his research is concerned with inter-religious law, international private law and multiculturalism. His publications include: Forum Non Conveniens in the Modern Age (2004); and Religion in the Public Sphere. A Comparative Analysis of German, Israeli, American and International Law (with W. Brugger, 2006). Address: Vice-Dean, The Faculty of Law, The Hebrew University, Jerusalem 9105, Israel. [email: michaelk@mscc.huji.ac.il]

Michel Maffesoli, lecturer in sociology at the Sorbonne, director of the Centre d'Etudes sur l'Actuel et le Quotidien (Sorbonne) and the Centre de Recherche sur l'Imaginaire at the Maison des Sciences de l'Homme, is editor of the international journal Sociétés and Cahiers de l'Imaginaire. He has published many books on social and cultural phenomena. Address: 20 rue Pierre et Marie Curie, 75005 Paris, France. [email: maffesoli@ceaq-sorbonne.org; MichelMaffesoli@univ-paris5.fr]

Ru Xin, a philosopher, is considered to be one of the most prominent Chinese scholars. He is a former vice-president of the ICPHS and the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences, Beijing. Address: Institute of Philosophy, Chinese Academy of Social Sciences, 5 Jianguomennei Dajie, 100732 Beijing, China. [ruxin@cass.org.cn]

Joseph Yacoub has been lecturing in political sciences at the Catholic University in Lyon, France (Institut des Droits de l'Homme), since 1975. With a doctorate in history and another in letters and the science of history from the University of Lyon II, he is a specialist in human rights, ethnic and cultural minorities, indigenous peoples and eastern Aramaic-speaking Christians and is the author of many books in several languages. Address: 114 grande rue Guillotière, 69007 Lyon, France. [email: jyacoub@univ-catholyon.fr]