MONOGRAPH SUPPLEMENTS TO THE SCOTTISH JOURNAL OF THEOLOGY

This is a series of supplements to the Scottish Journal of Theology jointly edited by Professors T. F. Torrance and J. K. S. Reid.

REVELATION AND THEOLOGY

An analysis of the Barth-Harnack correspondence of 1923

H. MARTIN RUMSCHEIDT

In 1923 Adolf von Harnack, the Professor of Church History at Berlin, and his former pupil Karl Barth published in the Journal Christliche Welt an exchange of five open letters. This correspondence represents a classic statement of the two sides in a continuing theological debate about the nature of the theologian's expertise and his understanding of God. Harnack defended the established academic ideal of a 'scientific theology'—an objective study consisting primarily of historical investigation and critical reflection. Barth emphasized instead the role of revelation, grace and personal commitment in our understanding of God, arguing that to rely on the external proofs and authorities of natural theology was to empty religion of its significance and reality for the individual.

Dr Rumscheidt presents the correspondence, in translation, with a full critical analysis and evaluation. He estimates the importance of this debate for the new theology and the new Reformation which Barth can be said to have inaugurated.

DAVID FRIEDRICH STRAUSS AND HIS THEOLOGY

HORTON HARRIS

A study of David Friedrich Strauss, certainly the most notorious and arguably the most important theological figure of the 19th century. His Life of Jesus (1835), repudiating the historicity of the Gospels, split the century into two theological eras and set in motion the 'Quest for the historical Jesus' and the ensuing investigation into the authenticity of the N.T. writings. His view that the Gospels were quite untrustworthy as historical sources threatened to undermine the whole foundation of the Christian Church and thus provoked a strong counter-reaction from inside the establishment. Strauss rejected the supernatural and rationalistic interpretations of the Gospel miracles and championed a third view—the mythical interpretation: the Gospel stories were myths, unconsciously invented to fulfil the messianic prophecies in the O.T. The mythical interpretation thus brought into sharp focus for the first time the relationship between New Testament history, philosophy and faith.

INDIA AND THE LATIN CAPTIVITY OF THE CHURCH

The Cultural Context of the Gospel

ROBIN H. S. BOYD

Dr Boyd writes from the practical situation of an Irish missionary in India. He studies the development of a genuinely Indian Christian theology, detached from its traditional 'Latin' encasement (hence the title) and expressed in a form appropriate to Indian culture and Indian modes of thought.

The Christian Church is now strongly established in India and has evolved its own activities and structures, quite distinctive from those of the Church in the West. Dr Boyd suggests that the western Church can in turn learn from the eastern, and must do so if it is to liberate its theological language, its organisational structures and its 'colonial' approach to the spread of Christianity from the traditional forms which now impede it. In this way the Christian faith and the true Christian message—in both East and West—can be more clearly defined and experienced.

THE HANDSEL PRESS

The Handsel Press was set up in 1975 in association with the Scottish Academic Press. It aims to publish theological books falling generally into two categories: those speaking from the "centre" of Christian faith, directed at ministers, theological students and interested laymen, and books which will explore key frontiers with Christian faith and ethics in such fields as education, psychology, medicine and other sciences.

*Here are two titles from the Press
just recently published*

1 Theology as Narration

G. A. F. KNIGHT

This work is primarily a verse-by-verse commentary upon the book of Exodus that pays first attention to theology and exegesis, although on occasions important issues such as the relationship between science and magic, the hardening of the heart, the twilight of the gods, etc., are dealt with in some detail.

October 1976 216 × 138 mm. 236 pp. 905312 01 5 £5-00

2 Space, Time and Resurrection

T. F. TORRANCE

This work deals with the Resurrection in relation to space and time, with special relation to time. It attempts to set out the biblical approach to the Resurrection, in terms of the intrinsic significance of the resurrected one; and shows that the Resurrection is entirely consistent with who Jesus was and what He did, and is continuous with His whole reality.

All this is elucidated in the context of modern scientific thought and questioning, in such a way as to show that far from being frightened into a miserable compromise of the New Testament message of the Resurrection of Jesus Christ in body, it actually allows us to take its full measure. The implications of this are drawn out for eschatology and the renewal of the creation.

THE CHURCH BEFORE THE COVENANTS

The Church of Scotland

1596-1638

Walter Roland Foster

A fresh assessment of the national Church of Scotland in the early seventeenth century, a crucial period in its history when the reformed Kirk was not only completely united but, equally important, thoroughly presbyterian and fully episcopal. Considerable progress was made in the spread of presbyteries, the establishment of reformed parishes, the growth of schools, and the financial reorganization of the Church. A pragmatic solution as much as a doctrinaire one, the Scottish Church was a unique Reformation experiment.

Rather than rely solely upon the polemical histories written at the time, Professor Foster has drawn on primary sources – presbytery minutes, synod records, journals, letters and wills – and thus achieves a closer understanding of the ordinary operation of the Church, which is revealed as both effective and harmonious, and not beset by intense rivalry or factions.

Apart from its historical importance, Professor Foster's study has clear implications for re-union plans which seek to embrace both the reformed and episcopal traditions.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

Contributions and editorial correspondence should be sent to one of the editors: Rev. Dr A. I. C. Heron, New College, Mound Place, Edinburgh EH1 2LX; Rev. Dr J. Houston, University of Glasgow, 3 Southpark Terrace, Glasgow G12 8QQ or to Scottish Academic Press Ltd., 33 Montgomery Street, Edinburgh EH7 5JX.

Submission of an article is taken to imply that it has not previously been published in English, or is not being considered by another journal for publication in English. In the interests of authors, copyright is normally assigned to the Scottish Academic Press. The average length of articles is 5000 words. Although longer articles are accepted, those in excess of 10,000 words cannot be considered.

Contributions (articles and reviews) should be clearly typed in double spacing, and on one side of the paper only. The rule about double spacing applies also to footnotes, which should be used sparingly. Cross-references within the article offered should not be included.

Notes for the editors and instructions for the printer should be attached on separate sheets. Contributors should keep one copy of the typescript for use in correcting proofs.

Contributors from the United States may use U.S. spellings. Greek and Hebrew words need not be transliterated. Capitalisation should be kept to a minimum; and in particular should not be used in pronouns referring to the Deity.

First proofs of articles and reviews may be read and corrected by contributors, and should normally be returned to the organising editor within ten days of receipt. Correction should be confined to errors of the printer. More extensive correction can be made only with the concurrence of an editor. No proofs of reviews will be sent.

Contributors of articles and article reviews (but not of reviews) receive 10 free offprints. Extra copies may be bought according to an agreed scale of charges, provided that these are ordered at the time of returning corrected proofs.
