TRADITION AND INCARNATION

Foundations of Christian Theology

William L. Portier

William Portier's new book, an introductory text for undergraduate theology courses, fills a textbook need that has long existed. With insight from his own teaching experience, he has written a clear, accessible volume presenting Christian theology as a humanities discipline in which the Bible, supplemented with the creed and other traditional sources, is the primary text to be interpreted. The book's fourteen chapters, one for each week of a typical semester, are divided into two parts. Part one treats fundamental theological ideas concerning revelation and part two dwells on Christological themes.

WORLD RELIGIONS

A Sourcebook for Students of Christian Theology

edited by Richard Viladesau and Mark Massa

In this companion volume to their Foundations of Theological Study, Richard Viladesau and Mark Massa provide students of Christian theology with a useful and valuable anthology of selections from the sacred texts of other world religions. The first section of the book presents a concise history of Christian stances toward other forms of belief. The second section provides a brief introduction to, and excerpts from, significant writings from Hinduism; Buddhism; Confucianism and Taoism; Zoroastrianism; Post-Classical Judaism; and Islam. The selections focus on their views of salvation, God, and the human condition.
